GOV. J. W. FOLK'S ADDRESS

A SPLENDID AUDIENCE GREETED HIM AT OPERA HOUSE LAST NIGHT.

MANY LADIES WERE IN ATTENDANCE

Was Introduced by Mr. Lee Montgomery, and Delivered an Address That Was Punctured by Liberal Applause.

The largest and most enthusiastic audience which has gathered in Sedalia during the present political campaign greeted Governor J. W. Folk at Wood's opera house last night. Every seat, up stairs and down, was filled and every inch of standing room was occupied. There were many ladies among those present.

The audience, which gathered early, was a patient one, too, and endured the long wait, caused by the lateness of the train from Clinton, on which the goverpor came, with great good nature.

It was quite a little after 8 o'clock when Gov. Folk appeared upon the stage, together with a score of prominent democrats of the city.

Mr. Lee Montgomery presided and in a few eloquent words introduced the speaker as the "only man now living in Missouri with national fame."

The governor was given an ovation lasting several minutes, the whole audience, it would seem, joining in the demonstration.

His address was a very strong and patriotic one, and was at the same time thoroughly and convincingly democratic. He announced his faith in both the national and state tickets and reviewed the platforms of the party, giving reasons why both should receive the unqualified support of the masses of the people. He dwelt especially on the anti-injunction plank of the platform, together with those relating to the guarantee of bank deposits, election of United States senators by the people, the reform of the speaker's rule of the house of representatives and the tariff.

Referring to his candidacy for United States senator, he reviewed his career as circuit attorney of St. Louis and governor of Missouri, and told of those reforms that he advocated and had been largely instrumental in bringing about.

He cited his successful war on race track gamblers, his forcing the saloons of St. Louis, Kansas City and St. Joseph to obey the Sunday and early closing laws, and challenged any man to show that the police departments of those cities were not compelling the strictest observance of the dramshop regulations. "As governor of the state," said he, "I offer a reward of $300 each for evidence that violations of these regulations in these cities are permitted by the police departments. Now, if any of my opponents believe that I am not enforcing the law, as they say, here is a chance for them to get rich."

To show how much work there is to be done in the senate by anyone who cares for work, Mr. Folk told of the recent findings concerning Senator Depew, Senator Platt, Senator Mitchell, Senator Foraker and Senator Burton.

"Wherever you find a gambler or a bootlegger or a Sunday saloon law violator you find a redhot anti-Folk man," said he. "I leave you to guess the reason."

Speaking of his reasons for becoming a candidate for the position he seeks, he said it was a place of great honor which no man could refuse, but in addition to that, he said his election would mean that the people indorsed his fight for public virtue and that it would mark a new path for men seeking high position, and would tell them that standing for the better things was not dangerous, but on the other hand, was bound to bring success to those who advocated them.

"I want to represent you right," exclaimed the speaker, "and if I can not do that I would resign my seat."

At the close of his speech the governor made a curt reply to the charge that he was in political alliance with Herbert S. Hadley.

"Those who say I have made such an alliance," he said, "are attacking and injuring the democratic state ticket. They are party traitors, and in hurting the party are making the ticket run a risk of losing the state. But political pirates probably would not care if they did."

Governor Folk could not fail but to have been gratified at his reception in Sedalia, and his friends and supporters were jubilant over both his address and the large audience that listened to and applauded it.

Governor Folk spoke to a large audience at Otterville this forenoon.

A Suspect in Custody.

Will Thompson, no relation of George Thompson, a police officer, was arrested by Officers Eads and Thompson this afternoon on suspicion. At the time he had three coats which he was trying to sell at a local second-hand store.

WILL REBUILD THE TOWN

THIS IS THE NEWS THAT COMES TO MR. O. P. WILCOX FROM ASHLAND, MO.

BROTHER TO CONTINUE THE "BUGLE"

Will Be Printed at Columbia Until New Material Arrives—Money From St. Louis for the Bank to Resume.

O. P. Wilcox talked with his brother, J. L. Wilcox, editor of the Ashland, Mo., Bugle, last night over the telephone and learned that immediate steps would be taken to rebuild the business section of Ashland, which, with the exception of two buildings, was wiped out by fire Sunday night.

Editor Wilcox is publishing his paper at Columbia until his new equipment, which has been ordered, arrives. He will not miss an issue, but will go along just as if there had been no fire, except for the inconvenience of publishing his paper fifteen miles from home.

Rev. Johnson, who built and has been a very close friend to Ashland, has arranged to reopen the bank immediately, having secured money from St. Louis, which was delivered Tuesday.

The Ashland bank was totally destroyed and it will not be known whether the papers and the money in the vault is secure until the debris cools sufficiently to permit of examination.

LENA GOT OFF LIGHTLY

Was Arrested in Company of Young Men Last Night.

Lena Vogle, a young girl of questionable character, was arrested by the police last night on the charge of being a prostitute and drunkenness.

At the time she, with a number of young men, several of whom have had involuntary dealings with the police, was occupying the loft of the barn in the rear of the Elite Tailoring company, and, according to the "sleuths," was "carrying on scandalously." Judge Gresham today fined the woman $10, which she agreed to pay.

A warrant was later issued for the arrest of the young men who were in her company at the time and who escaped when the police raided the resort.

MAJOR B. B. RAY MUST "HIKE"

Former Missouri Pacific Conductor Out of Sedalia.

Chicago, Oct. 21.—Major Beecher R. Ray and Major Timothy D. Kelliher, of the paymaster's department, were commanded yesterday, in a general order issued by Brigadier General Carter, commander of the department of the lakes, to take a 50-mile "hike," beginning today and continuing for three days.

Several weeks ago all the officers of the department with the exception of Major Ray and Major Kelliher, participated in a 90-mile horseback test ordered by the government.

It is the first time an endurance walk has been ordered by Gen. Carter in lieu of the horseback test instituted by President Roosevelt. In their walk the officers will be accompanied by a detachment of soldiers from Fort Sheridan.

Licensed to Wed.

A marriage license was issued late yesterday to Walter E. Gregory and Resa Woodward, both of Lamonte.

PHOTOGRAPH OF A NEGRO

MISS BALLANTINE GAVE IT AND SCHOOL BOARD ASKED RESIGNATION.

AN EPXLANATION BY THE TEACHER

The Incident Occurred Some Twenty Years Ago, When She Graduated at Battle Creek, Michigan.

Hillsboro, Texas, Oct. 21.—In connection with the action of the Hillsboro school board in passing a motion to dispense with the services of Miss Grace Ballantine, teacher of music and drawing in the public schools, because she had, with other members of the graduating class at Battle Creek (Michigan) High school, exchanged photos with a young negro who graduated in the same class, Miss Ballantine says:

"The class of which I was a member twenty years ago as a girl of 16 contained eleven members, eight white girls, two white and one negro boy.

"It had been the custom for years, and still is the custom in that school for all members of graduating classes to exchange pictures.

"We had not thought of exchanging with the negro, but, at the close of the school, the negro brought us his picture, and we, as a class, felt that we could not do anything less than give him ours. We only did so to keep from hurting his feelings.

"The statement above, which I made at my boarding house, was made because I had been charged with being too hard on the negroes in the south.

"I replied that I had always treated them justly, and gave the above incident as an example. The principal and superintendent also exchanged their pictures with all members of the class.

"All persons who were present when the above remarks were made will verify this statement as to my remarks."

Miss Ballantine further states:

"There were no social relations between any of the white members of the class and the negro, and I had never spoken to him before that time or since."

Social at Hill's Tonight.

The old and new pupils of Hill's Business college will enjoy a social at the school tonight, when the following program will be carried out:

Piano solo—Fred Hammond.
Vocal solo—R. C. Edden.
Organigate—Literary society.

Phonograph concert—S. R. Payne Piano Co.
Piano solo—Ethel Baltzell.

The evening will be spent in social games, and ice cream and cake will be served.

"NEW MENACE" BOBS UP

MR. BRYAN CALLED ATTENTION TO IT IN ADDRESS AT NEWARK, OHIO.

TELLS OF REPUBLICAN TACTICS

New York Central Officials Threaten 10 Per Cent Cut in Wages in the Event That Nebraskan Is Elected.

Newark, O., Oct. 21.—Thoroughly aroused by what he termed a "new menace" through the publication today of a press dispatch stating that officials of the New York Central lines had informed their workmen that if the democrats won the election there would be a 10 per cent reduction in wages, but otherwise, there would be an increase, Mr. Bryan, in a before-breakfast speech, poured a volley of criticism into the republican party for its campaign tactics.

DEMOCRATS HAVE $300,000

Campaign Funds Total Announced by Treasurer.

New York, Oct. 21.—The democratic national committee announced last night the list of campaign contributions received at New York headquarters on Oct. 17 and 19.

Treasurer Ridder stated that the campaign funds now amount to about $300,000.

WITNESS TO CLEAR MANN

NEW CHAPTER IN SENSATIONAL CASE

Charles McCormick Clawater Says That He and Not Luman C. Mann Went With Florence Thompson to Rooming House.

Chicago, Oct. 21.—A new witness in the Florence Thompson murder case has been discovered by whose testimony Mann's attorney is said to expect to prove that Luman C. Mann was not the woman's slayer.

This latest witness to enter the case is Charles McCormick Clawater, who, it is said, was employed until recently on a Milwaukee newspaper. He made a statement saying it was he who accompanied Mrs. Thompson to the Michigan avenue rooming house in which she was murdered.

It was Mrs. Thompson, declares Clawater, who suggested that he register under the name of J. H. Raymond."

Clawater was taken to the house at 1242 Michigan avenue and he readily pointed it out as the one which he and Mrs. Thompson entered on June 27.

He said he knows nothing of the murder, but will be a witness for Mann, who is now under indictment, charged with the crime.

Clawater was taken to a hotel, where he will be kept until Inspector Wheeler can question him.

Clawater is about 30 years old. He says he did not learn of the murder of Mrs. Thompson until after Mann's arrest.

BOMB NUMBER 21 EXPLODES

Third Explosion for Rogers' Saloon in "Gamblers' War."

Chicago, Oct. 21.—Bomb No. 21 in the "gamblers' war" and bomb No. 3 at John A. Rogers' saloon, 343 West Madison street, was exploded Monday night and wrecked the windows in the rear of the building.

The explosion followed close upon that of Saturday night at James O'Leary's place, Forty-first and Halsted streets, and was just as mysterious.

The bomb tore a hole in the roof of a shed in the rear of the saloon and three windows were shattered. Otherwise no damage was done. It is denied that gambling is permitted in the place.

State Commander Is Here.

Queen City hive No. 7, L. O. T. M., is in session in the Royal Tribe of Joseph building this afternoon, listening to an address by State Commander Mrs. Mae A. C. Sommers, of St. Louis. A social session, during which refreshments will be served, will conclude the affair.

$2,000 DAYLIGHT THEFT

CHICAGO MAN BEATEN AND ROBBED WHILE THE CROWD LOOKED ON.

THIEVES ESCAPED WITH SATCHEL

H. P. Stevenson Was Carrying the Sum Stated to the Bank When Two Highwaymen Attacked Him, With Result Stated.

Chicago, Oct. 21.—A daring daylight robbery occurred at Halstead street and Washington avenue yesterday, when H. P. Stevenson was beaten into insensibility by two highwaymen, who then escaped with a satchel in which Stevenson was carrying $2,000 to the bank.

A large crowd was attracted by the struggle, but the assault and robbery was perpetrated so quickly that the robbers had a good start when the pursuit began.

A BOLD BAD BURGLAR

Believed to Have Been Arrested Here By Police.

John Johnson, whose home is wherever his head is uncovered, was arrested by Assistant Chief of Police James Card on West Main street at 6:30 o'clock this morning on suspicion of having been implicated in the robbery of R. H. Nelson's store at Green Ridge on Oct. 10.

He was taken to police headquarters, where he was sweated and information gained that will lead to his conviction.

A suit case, containing two bolts of silk, two pairs of shoes and other articles, which were missed from Mr. Nelson's store, was found in Johnson's custody.

Later another suit case belonging to the prisoner was found secreted in the grass near the state fair grounds. Johnson was given a preliminary examination before Judge Clark and was held to the criminal court in the sum of $500.

A reward of $50 was paid for the arrest of the man.

ESCAPED UNDER FIRE

Man Reported Killed By Night Riders Shows Up All Right.

Nashville, Tenn., Oct. 21.—The Banner correspondent at Union City telegraphed today that Colonel R. Z. Taylor, who it was supposed was shot by night riders, has reached Tiptonville uninjured.

Union City, Tenn., Oct. 21.—Col. Taylor escaped from the night riders an hour after Capt. Rankin was hanged. While the riders disputed over his fate he leaped in the bayou, swam across under fire and reached Tiptonville this morning.

The militia under the personal direction of Governor Patterson is being distributed throughout the disturbed territory.

Judge Taft Getting Ready for His Invasion of Indiana.

Cincinnati, O., Oct. 21.—A day of absolute quiet and rest is being indulged in by Judge Taft, who arrived here this morning and will remain until tomorow morning. His three days' work in Indiana will begin tomorrow and end Saturday night, when the Taft special will start at once for New York City.

ASKED GIRL TO FORGIVE

INSULT WAS RESENTED BY WOMAN

Stenographer Resigned In Pittsburg, Pa., and Her Employer Said He Made Reparation In Death.

Pittsburg, Pa., Oct. 21.—As reparation for an insult to Miss Florence Warman, his stenographer, Jerome Compton Counsell a private detective, formerly of St. Louis, shot and killed himself while talking to Miss Warman over the telephone Monday night.

He pleaded incoherently for her to forgive him, but before she could reply he said: "I am sorry I spoke to you as I did and I am going to pay for it now. Listen."

Miss Warman heard two shots and ran screaming from the telephone. She notified the manager of the detective agency and Counsell was found dead on a desk in the office, his body bent over the telephone transmitter. The revolver was in his hand.

Counsell who was 28 years old, came to Pittsburg from St. Louis, about a year ago, with his wife and family, to whom he seemed devoted. He obtained employment with the Keystone Detective agency and was considered one of their best operatives.

Miss Warman was employed by Counsell as a stenographer. Remarks he made to her Monday caused her to resign.

Counsell called her on the telephone at her home Monday night to apologize. He had been talking to her only a few moments when he shot himself.

Counsell's wife is an invalid.

MONOPOLY IN GOVERNMENT.

That clause of the democratic platform dealing with the evils of private monopoly and the methods that may be adopted for remedying such evils has been fully discussed and championed in a speech delievered by Mr. Bryan. It involves not so much a question of principle as one of procedure.

The failure of the federal government for eighteen years to enforce the federal laws already on the statute books providing fines and imprisonment for conspiracies in restraint of trade, taken together, seems to sufficiently indicate the proper first steps toward repression and reform.

The democratic party proposes a rigid enforcement of the anti-trust laws and such changes in the tariff schedules as will do away with the favoritism which constitutes the foundation upon which the trusts are built. These correctives failing, the platform of the party points the way to further expedients of reform.

The republican party occupies the equivocal position of first authorizing a system of protective tariff legislation which is intended to build up monopolies and afterward enacting statutes (which it does not enforce) for the prevention of monopolies.

There may be dispute as to the propriety of efficiency of the means proposed in the democratic platform for the extirpation of the trusts should these monopolies prove able to maintain themselves in spite of due enforcement and in spite of a knocking away of the props upon which they stand.

Such dispute, however, is of no immediate consequence. Until we get a congress that will reform the tariff and an executive that will enforce existent laws for the repression of monopolies, there is no hope for the passage of further remedial legislation.

The trusts have control of the republican party and the republican party has control of the government. Until the people turn the republican party out of power the rule of monopoly will continue. The cry of "democracy against plutocracy" is really a summing up of the issues.

BRYAN ON TRUSTS.

The logic of the proposition, "The people shall rule" is wholly with Mr Bryan. The republican leaders argue that there is no salvation for the nation except in the republican party. Mr. Taft himself is not averse to this opinion, and adds to it the plausible suggestion that the democratic party has had no experience in managing the affairs of the nation, and that under the rule of William Jennings Bryan various disasters are liable to happen.

It is a dangerous political argument to contend that good government rests only with one certain party and that bad government is a synonym for another certain party. It is practically a confession of what Mr. Bryan charges against the republican party, that it is the party of special privileges and monopolies, inasmuch as its claims the exclusive monopoly of government. If not, from what is the nation to be saved? What policy, asks the Chicago Dispatch, brought it to the point where salvation is necessary?

An adaptation of this principle to our system of government would lead to an oligarchy, which is but the stepping stone to an imperial form of government, under which the people are not trusted with the management of their own affairs. The issue is squarely presented to the people and it is doubtful whether they will cast their votes for any party that refuses to place confidence in their common sense and seeks their votes only for the express purpoe of retaining possession of the government of the nation.

It is the Standard Oil argument that it should be allowed to continue its monopoly because oil is now cheaper than it was forty years ago. It is a bold stand to take on the part of the republicans and Mr. Bryan has seized upon it with a clear sightedness that must make it apparent to the American people that there is no safety in the g. o. p., but on the contrary, danger to the public welfare.

There are thousands of men in our workshops, behind counters and in the professions equally as competent to govern the nation successfully as any of the men now governing for the benefit of the monopolies. To say that a select few are the only ones competent, is to insult the nation

But the republican party is void of any other argument to elect Mr Taft.

"WHAT IS JOE CANNON?"

Rev. Dr. J. K. Shields, superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League of Illinois, in a speech before the Rock River M. E. conference on Wednesday said: "What Is Joe Cannon? Just a few days ago I met a young lawyer whom he had sent down into the state to talk temperance. He told me that he had met 'Uncle Joe' in a car and had ridden with him for quite a while, and when I asked him for the impression that Uncle Joe had made, he said:

"Shields, I have heard vileness from the mouths of many men, but the profanity that streamed from the lips of Joe Cannon I never heard equaled.'" —St. Louis Christian Advocate.

KEEP BOTH GOING.

A store's advertisements, says the Buffalo News, tell the people what is "doing" at that store—what is new, what is inviting, why today is a good time to visit that store. People look at the ads to tell them these things just as naturally as they look at the clock to tell them the time.

Sometimes a clock does not run—sometimes a store ad does not. A "run down" clock or ad are about equally unsatisfactory, unserviceable, misleading.

Curious thing about it is that a merchant who would think it absurd to have a "run down" or out-or-repair clock, will, sometimes, deliberately let his ad stop running. It's not wise, nor "good business," nor defensible on any known grounds, but it's sometimes done.

The republican campaign has the united labor interests opposing it this time. The action of the Central Federation in New York, the strongest labor organization in the country, indorsing Bryan and denouncing the attitude of the republican platform toward labor, is the most serious blow the g. o. p. has sustained. It means the loss of an enormous vote. It increases Bryan's chances immeasureably.

Florida Grape Fruit

The proper way to serve the king of breakfast fruit is to cut in two between the stem end and blossom end, remove the seeds and core with a sharp pointed knife, fill the cavity thus formed with powdered sugar, prepare this way at night and serve for breakfast. Fine new grape fruit, 2 for 25c.

FEDERATION OF LABOR

THE NATIONAL BODY WILL BE CALLED TO ORDER IN DENVER NOVEMBER 9.

SESSION TO BE OF DEEP INTEREST

If Mr. Bryan Should Be Elected President Gompers' Re-Election Is Assured; But Otherwise, Defeat Is Likely.

Denver, Colo., Oct. 21.—One of the most important conventions of the year will be held in Denver, beginning November 9, when the American Federation of Labor will hold its annual session.

The session will doubtless be of the greatest interest, since it will follow the national election, and the result of the Gompers declaration in favor of Bryan will be apparent.

The coming election is looked upon as a crucial test of the political influence of organized labor.

If the results of the federation's venture into politics should not be satisfactory to the rank and file of the members, an attempt may be made at the convention next month to return to the old policy of abstinence from participation in political activities.

The socialist delegates will probably make an attempt to oust President Samuel Gompers from the position of executive head of the federation.

A PRE-NUPTIAL DINNER

Given for Miss Latimer and Mr. Byng by Messrs. Hawkins and Gallagher

Harry Hawkins and John Gallagher were hosts at a very delightful dinner party given at the Elks' club last evening in honor of Miss Mildred Latimer and John W. Byng, who are to be married next Saturday.

The table was set for twenty-two guests, with only one vacant place. Miss Jane Morey being absent. The decorations were roses and smilax, with a large "L" at one end, Miss Latimer's place, and a "B" at the other, for Mr. Byng.

The party consisted of Misses Lamm, of Fayetteville, Tenn.; Louise Alexander, Ann Skinner, Bess Doyle, Minnie Crafton, of Jefferson City; Mildred Latimer, Mary Estill, Irene Blair, Florence Floyd; Messrs. John W. Byng, Pitkin Stanley, Charles Messerly, E. Ross Kyger, of Kansas City; David Thompson, John Antes, Joe Waddell, Charles Brown.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Latimer chaperoned the party.

The dinner was served in seven courses, and attested further the ability of H. V. Llest and his good wife to arrange a spread unexcelled anywhere.

After the dinner the hall was cleared and the guests danced until the midnight hour, and as the party broke up, many were the remarks of the pleasant evening all had enjoyed.

NOW IT IS "LITTLE NEMO"

MADE INITIAL APPEARANCE AT THE NEW AMSTERDAM IN NEW YORK.

IS FAMILIAR TO KIDS OF COUNTRY

Predicted That the Production Will Bscome Even More Popular Than "The Merry Widow" Was In the Metropolis.

New York, Oct. 21.—"Little Nemo," who is familiar to the kids of the country as a newspaper "comic section" character, made his initial metropolitan stage appearance at the New Amsterdam theatre last night.

The hearty welcome accorded to "Little Nemo" at the "tryout" in Philadelphia bids fair to be repeated in New York, and predictions are made that he will succeed "The Merry Widow" in the affections of devotees of comic opera.

"Little Nemo" is set to entrancing music by Victor Herbert, while the book is by Harry B. Smith.

There are 150 people in the cast, the principal comedians being Joseph Cawthorn, Harry Kelly and Billy Van.

"The Merry Widow," the most successful comic opera of recent years, goes to Brooklyn with the original cast, and later will tour the New England states.

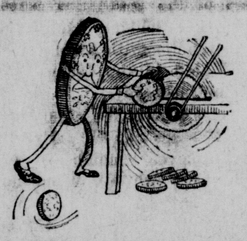

"My three year old boy was badly constipated, had a high fever and was in an awful condition. I gave him two doses of Foley's Orino Laxative and the next morning the fever was gone and he was entirely well. Foley's Orino Laxative saved his life." —A. Wolkush, Casimer, Wis. Arlington Pharmacy.

DO YOU GET UP WITH A LAME BACK?

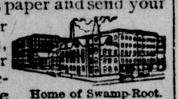

Kidney Trouble Makes You Miserable.

Almost everybody who reads the newspapers is sure to know of the wonderful cures made by Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy.

It is the great medical triumph of the nineteenth century; discovered after years of scientific research by Dr. Kilmer, the eminent kidney and bladder specialist, and is wonderfully successful in promptly curing lame back, uric acid, catarrh of the bladder and Bright's Disease, which is the worst form of kidney trouble.

Dr Kilmer's Swamp-Root is not recommended for everything but if you have kidney, liver or bladder trouble it will be found just the remedy you need. It has been tested in so many ways, in hospital work and in private practice, and has proved so successful in every case that a special arrangement has been made by which all readers of this paper, who have not already tried it, may have a sample bottle sent free by mail, also a book telling more about Swamp-Root, and how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble. When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper and send your address to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. The regular fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles are sold by all good druggists. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

TAFT IN HOOSIER STATE

TOMORROW WILL ENTER UPON ONE OF HIS MOST IMPORTANT CRUSADES.

HOPES TO TURN THE TIDE HIS WAY

Indiana Is Said to Be the Most Doubtful State in the Entire Sisterhood for the "Dopester" Just Now.

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 21.—When William Howard Taft begins his three-day stumping tour of Indiana tomorrow he will enter upon one of the most important speaking crusades of his campaign. Backed up by Senator Beveridge and Vice President Fairbanks, the republican presidential candidate will make a last supreme effort to turn in his favor the balance of public opinion that now swings variably from one side to the other, now apparently favoring the republicans and again presaging a democratic victory. The breeze of Mr. Taft's oratory may swing the balance in his favor, and he and his political advisors will spend a busy three days attempting to achieve that result.

Beyond all doubt Indiana is the most hopeless state in the Union for the political dopesters. The most astute politicians of both parties are "up in the air" as to what Nov. 3 may bring in the way of Hoosier votes. The more optimistic ones of both parties are talking of landslides and wild, improbable majorities for either Bryan or Taft. The conservative only shakes his head. If he is a democrat he is certain that Bryan will get Indiana's electoral vote. If a republican he is equally sure of Taft's victory. Asked for facts and figures to substantiate the faith that is in him, he answers only in prescient monysyllables.

Many Indiana republicans will have sore spots left from the turn-down they received at the Chicago convention. They are inclined to hold Taft responsible. During the next three days Taft will endeavor to disabuse the minds of the disgruntled ones, and prove to the satisfaction of the independent voters and near-republicans that he is a good fellow and that the interests of the country and especially Indiana will be in safe hands. If he succeeds, the possibility of defeat may be turned into victory.

In Indiana, as throughout the country generally, both parties are bidding high for the labor vote. The advantage is with the democrats, who may therefore be expected to poll a slightly larger labor vote than four years ago. But there is absolutely no reason for believing that the labor issue alone can insure democratic success.

There is further ground than that already indicated for maintaining this proposition. A very considerable proportion of the labor vote which is expected this year to be lost to the republicans will not go to the democrats. There are in the field three other parties which propose to make a thorough canvass of this state, and whose appeals to the laboring class are certain to fall upon many willing ears. In the first place, there are the socialists, led by Eugene V. Debs, of Terre Haute, long the idol of the socialistically inclined throughout the middle west. It is asserted by both partisans and non-partisans in a position to know that there has been a remarkable growth of socialism in Indiana during the past three years. The leaders of the party have determined upon a vigorous campaign and the work of organization is being pushed systematically and effectively in all of the principal population centers.

The liquor issue also plays an important part in the Indiana campaign. The recent special session of the legislature called by Governor Hanly, principally for the purpose of passing a local option law, with the county as the unit, has had a political effect difficult to accurately forecast. Certainly the republicans have earned the enmity of the brewers and the liquor interests, who will vote as a unit for the democratic candidate for governor, Thomas R. Marshall.

Already it has become apparent that the state campaign will be fought out on the liquor issue. On the statute books of the state now is a law known as the Moore remonstrance act. It provides that the voters of any ward, township or other political sub-division may, by a petition of the majority, drive out liquor sellers from their neighborhood. Under this law it has been possible for any neighborhood or community of prohibition tendencies to prevent liquor selling. At their convention the republicans declared in favor of a local option law, based on the county as a unit, and requiring an election to decide whether or not liquor should be sold.

The democrats put in their platform a recommendation for a local option law, based on the ward and the township as the election unit. The brewers and distillers favor the democratic recommendation as giving them a better opportunity to continue the sale of liquor in Indiana than will be afforded by the republican plan of county local option. The liquor people figure that it will be more difficult for the prohibitionists to carry a ward or township by election than under the present plan of petition. Wards and townships easily can be colonized by the liquor men. Under the present plan of petition there is no opportunity for thwarting the will of the majority. Therefore, in the state fight the probabilities are that the temperance vote will be cast for Watson and the liberal and liquor vote for Marshall, the democratic candidate for governor. The republicans are counting upon this to overcome the defections of the labor unions, the old soldiers and possibly many negro votes.

To complete the list of exciting possibilities, six congressional districts are most uncertain, and will be closely contested. In the First district Representative Foster has antagonized the prohibitionists, and it is shown will have a difficult job of securing re-election. The Second district, now represented by Mr. Cheney, is normally close, and under the circumstances particularly so this year. James E. Watson's district, the Sixth, it is feared by republicans here, will elect a democrat to congress in November.

The republicans in the Eighth district have been for a long time disorganized by factional quarrels. It was represented by a republican in the Fifty-ninth congress, but sent a democrat to the present congress. It is the toss of a coin whether a democrat or a republican will be elected in November

There is another factional fight in the Twelfth district, where Frederick Landis was defeated at the last congressional election by a democrat. It is both possible and probable that this district will send a democrat to the sixty-first congress.

Down in the South Bend district, formerly represented by Abraham L. Brick, who died last winter, conditions are such as to make the republican leaders apprehensive. They concede that a democrat may be elected. Charles Landis, in the Ninth district, expects to have a hard fight for re-election. He has become involved in a factional row over post office appointments, which may result in keeping him at home.

This is but an outline of the situation in a state where politics is played every day in the year and where every able bodied citizen is a politician, or an author, or both.

WIND STORM INJURES 22

SAVANNAH, MO., HIGH SCHOOL BOYS HURT BY COLLAPSE OF GRAND STAND.

INJURIES OF ONE MAY BE FATAL

Youths at Football Practice Tuesday Afternoon Seek Shelter in Seats, Which Are Blown Down By a Tornado.

Savannah, Mo., Oct. 21.—One football player fatally injured and twenty-two others hurt, some of them seriously, is the result of an accident here at 5 o'clock last afternoon; when the grand stand at the ball park, in which the players had taken shelter, was blown down during a tornado.

All of the boys are high school students and were at football practice. Rain started and they took seats high in the grand stand, which blew down a few minutes later. All were precipitated to the ground, the heavy timbers falling upon them.

Walter Warner suffered concussion of the brain and was internally hurt. He failed to regain consciousness during the night. There is little hope for his recovery.

All of the others suffered injuries about the body and severe sprains, the most seriously hurt being Cleve Chronister, George Gore, John McDonald and Virgil Kline.

All the doctors in town were called to attend the injured, and an emergency hospital was made out of a nearby residence.

CREAT RECORD OF KATY

NOTED WRITER IN THE TECHNICAL WORLD MAGAZINE WRITES OF LINE.

A SPLENDID RECORD IN 40 YEARS

S. O. Dunn, Western Editorial Manager of the Railway Age Gazette, Discusses Railway Accidents in an Able Article.

The first article in the November issue of the Technical World Magazine, one of the leading magazines of the country, treats of railway accidents. The article is written by S. O. Dunn, western editorial manager of the Railway Age Gazette. The article starts out with the statement that a passenger has never been killed on the M., K. & T. railroad, and there is a picture of the recent wreck on that road near Sedalia. The article, as it relates to the Katy, is as follows:

"It was reported a short time ago in a press dispatch that a passenger had been killed in a train accident on the Missouri, Kansas and Texas railway. The management of the Katy immediately denied the correctness of the report and stated that there neverh ad been a passenger killed on its lines. This statement was true. During the forty years that this road has been in operation no traveler has met death upon one of its trains through a train accident. In this respect it has a record that is 100 percent. I do not know whether any other railroa dsystem in the country of equal mileage and density of traffic can pass an equally good examination.

"American railroads have a bad reputation for accidents. Whether they merit as bad a name as they have is another matter. Be that as it may, the fact that a railroad of the size of the Katy has never killed a passenger is notable. How it had made so good a record seemed to merit investigation. But when one of its officers was asked how it had managed to do so well, he replied: 'So many features enter into consideration of the matter that we do not know where to begin nor to what particular condition we can attribute the enviable position we now hold. The specific usually prescribed for accidents is block signals. But block signals have not afforded much protection to passengers on the Katy, because it has now only 140 miles of them on its 3,000 miles of lines. Double track is a great safeguard against train accidents, especially where traffic is dense, but double track is not familiar in the southwest, and the Katy has no more of it than other roads there.

Explanation of the Road.

"The explanation of this road's enviable record may, perhaps, be summed up in the two words, 'good management.' It is not free from accidents, as is shown by the accompanying picture of the wreck of its flyer near Sedalia, Mo., on June 20, 1908, but it has taken the care to equip its passenger trains with heavy cars that will stand very hard strains, and when the flyer collided with a stock train while runnng at a very high speed to make up time, and the locomotive and the baggage car next to it were demolished, not one of the 200 passengers on the train received a scratch, and a number did not know until some time later that a serious accident had occurred. The management also requires that special attention shall be given constantly to track and that rigid inspection shall be made of brakes and running gear of cars. It employes train auditors to collect tickets so that the conductor can give his entire attention to running his train.

Cause of Accidents.

"If you will trace the matter of the cause and prevention of train accidents far enough you will always encounter the human element. It is the most important element of all. The best cars, track and signals, overhead crossings, depressed crossings, are desirable, but they will not prevent accidents, mangled bodies and untimely deaths if the men at the top and the men at the bottom do not know their duty and do it. The Katy owes its clean accident record largely to the fact that the men at the top, knowing and doing their duty, have disciplined or discharged employes who do not know and do their duty, and have kept employes who have known and done their duty. There are on this road 115 locomotive engineers who have been in continuous service for fifteen or more years, their average term of service being twenty-three years, and the longest term of service being thirty-eight years. The engineer who has worked for a road for a long time is apt to be loyal to it, and to give it and its patrons the most conscientious and skillful service he can. He is pretty sure to know every rule of operation, every crossing, every signal, every curve in the track, and will be, therefore, other things equal, a safe man to trust with the hauling of passengers. The Katy's policy of making working for it attractive, so that its employes desire to stay, undoubtedly has contributed much toward making travel safe upon its lines.

Why Not Do as the Katy?

"The question arises, Why do not all roads protect their passengers equally well? One reason why there are more accidents on many railways than on the Katy is that its density of traffic is small compared with theirs. Accidents are apt to increase even faster in proportion than the amount of traffic handled. But density of traffic will not explain the accidents on most roads, for accidents happen on roads of light traffic as well as those where the traffic is most heavy.

"Before taking a survey of the methods that American railroads use to prevent accidents, let us examine briefly the accident problem itself, so that we may get a more accurate idea than most people have of its character and magnitude. The latest statistics of the interstate commerce commission for an entire year are for the twelve months ending June 30, 1907. In that year 11,839 persons were killed, and 111,016 were injured on the railroads of the United States. That is an appalling record. It is a disgrace to American railroads. It is also a disgrace to the American nation. For the railroads are not entirely responsible, as a study of the facts will show."

Facts in the Case.

"See here," said the tailor, as he headed the young man off, "do you cross the street every time you see me to keep from paying that bill you owe me?"

"I should say not," replied the y. m. "Then why do you do it?" asked the knight of the tape.

"To keep you from asking for it," answered the other.

Legal Language.

"Your act," stated the lawyer, "is declared to be deliberate, intentional, willful, obstinate, evil, anarchistic, wanton, malicious, autocratic and menacing."

"Golly," faltered the teamster who had blocked traffic for a few moments, "better lemme go to jail, boss. You can't clear me of all that."—Kansas City Journal.

Nice Work for Hubby.

"I was calling on a friend to-day," asid a woman, "when she showed me some beautifully embroidered pillow tops. The work on one of them was particularly fine. It represented a bunch of roses and each flower was shaded. When I had admired the different pieces my friend said: 'Who do you think did that?'

"'Why,' I answered, 'your daughter, I suppose.'

"'No,' she said, 'it's my husband. He is not fond of reading, and when he finishes his newspaper in the evening he takes up embroidery to pass the time.'"

FERNS A GOOD PRESERVATIVE.

Best Material in Which Foodstuffs Can Be Packed.

Fern leaves excel all other agents for packing articles of food, according to Consul General Guenther at Frankfort. He has forwarded an article to the state department, of which the following is a summary:

"People who have lived in England know that the English have used fern leaves successfully for many years. Valuable fruit, fresh butter, etc., are no longer seen in the English markets packed in grape-vine leaves, but almost always in fresh fern leaves, which keep the articles excellently.

"This is done where grape-vine leaves are to be had in abundance. Every one posted well in botany knows the high preservative power of fern leaves with reference to vegetable and animal substances.

"On the Isle of Man herrings are packed in ferns and arrive on the market in as fresh a condition as when they were shipped. Potatoes packed in ferns keep many months longer than others packed only in straw.

"Experiments made with both straw and fern leaves in the same cellar showed surprising results in favor of ferns. While the potatoes packed in straw mostly showed signs of rotting in the spring, those in ferns were as fresh as if they had just been dug. Fresh meat is also well preserved by fern leaves.

"It would seem as if the preservative qualities of fern leaves are due to their high percentage of salt. No larvae, maggots, etc., approach ferns, as the strong odor keeps them away."

PUT AN END TO THE QUARREL.

Birth of Baby Ended Argument Between Loving Couple.

"Did you ever quarrel with your wife, Binks?"

"Only once."

"Only once? Gee! You are a lucky man."

"Oh, it wasn't luck. I merely found out then that it wasn't worth while."

"Aha! Had to let her have her way, eh?"

"No; it wasn't that. She didn't have her own way."

"Oh, I see! You won out, and felt like a brute afterward."

"Nope. I didn't win out.".

"Well, how the dickens—"

"Why, it was this way. You see, she wanted to name the baby Thomas, after me, and I wanted to name it William, after her father, who was a dead game old sport if there ever was one. We had an argument lasting two whole months, and while she wept I was firm; she was adamant even in her tears, and I wasn't to be moved by heaven or earth. And then—well, then, you see the baby was born."

"And then, of course, you each wanted to give in to the other, and found yourselves still on opposite sides."

"No. The baby was a girl."—Judge.

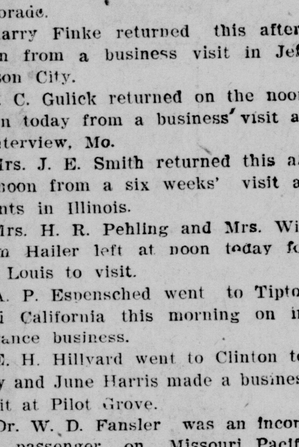

Real Jack Robinson.

"Jack Robinson" has long been a favorite synonym for rapidity of speech or action, but possibly few people who use the phrase are aware that "Jack Robinson" was a real, live person.

As a politician John Robinson was a great favorite with George III. His political career was a long one, for he was member for Harwich during 26 years, being on one occasion bitterly attacked by Sheridan, who, denouncing bribery and its instigators, replied to the cries of "Name, name," by pointing to Robinson on the treasury bench, exclaiming at the same time: "Yes, I could name him as soon as I could say Jack Robinson," and thus originated the saying still current at the present day.

Finally Got Information.

An English paper gives an old story a new setting by saying that on one occasion when Justice Warrington was listening to a case in which an Irishman was called as witness, his ignorance was painfully evident as soon as he stepped into the box. A young lawyer, in his cross-examination, tried his best to obtain some information from the witness which might prove helpful, but all to no purpose. Then he asked him if he had read anything in his life. "Yes, sir," was the reply. "Then tell the court what you read." "Well, yer honor," replied Pat, innocently, "I have red hairs on my neck."

INDIGESTION LEAVES PROMPTLY

Give Your Stomach a Good Eat Without Fear of Dyspepsia by Taking a Little Diapepsin, Which Is Harmless.

If what you eat is souring on your stomach or lies like a lump of lead, refusing to digest, or you belch gas and eructate sour, undigested food or have a feeling of dizziness, heartburn, fullness, nausea, bad taste in mouth and stomach headache—this is indigestion.

A full case of Pape's Diapepsin costs only 50 cents and will thoroughly cure the worst case of Dyspepsia, and leave sufficient about the house in case some one else in the family may suffer from stomach trouble or indigestion.

Ask your pharmacist to show you the formula, plainly printed on these 50-cent cases, then you will understand why Dyspeptic trouble of all kinds must go, and why they usually relieve a sour stomach or indigestion in five minutes. Get a case now and eat one Triangule after your next meal. They are harmless and taste like candy, though each contains power sufficient to digest and prepare for assimilation into the blood all the food you eat; besides, it makes you go to the table with a hearty, healthy appetite; but, what will please you most, is that you will feel that your stomach and intestines are clean and fresh, and you will not need to resort to laxatives or liver pills for biliousness or constipation.

This city will have many Diapepsin cranks, as some people will call them, but you will be cranky about this splendid stomach prescription, too, if you ever have Indigestion or Gastritis or any other stomach misery, and eat just one Triangule of Diapepsin.

CLAIMED THAT HE WANTED TO BE HANGED SO HE COULD RAISE FROM DEAD.

HAD ATTACKED MRS. IRENE TAYLOR

Recently a Mob Seized "Rev." Skaggs in Pulpit at Warren, Ark., and Chased Him From Town, After a Whipping.

Little Rock, Ark., Oct. 21.— The state supreme court has affirmed the sentence of "Elijah" Skaggs to twenty one years in the penitentiary for attacking Mrs. Irene Taylor, a member of his peculiar sect, in a park at Fort Smith.

Mrs. Taylor at first testified she had been attacked by Skaggs, but later she and Skaggs testified their relations were "spiritual" and that they had sought to bring about the hanging of Skaggs to enable him to prove his divinity by rising from the grave on the third day.

Recently a mob seized Skaggs in the pulpit at Warren, Ark., gave him a hundred lashes and chased him out of town.

BLIND PATIENTS IN PANIC

Flee in Fright From Wards to Escape From Fire.

Chicago, Oct. 21.—Patients, blind and semi-blind and some in serious stages of illness, fled in fright from their wards Monday night, when several slight explosions followed the discovery of fire in the rear of the Illinois Eye and Ear infirmary.

That there was not a serious panic was due to quick action of the night staff of the hospital, led by the superintendent, Charles Garrard. Squads of men, women and boys, unable to see, were led through the hallways and down the stairs to the hospital offices. Many who had fled to the street were reassured and induced to return to the building.

The fire, which is believed to have been of incendiary origin was discovered in a barn in the rear of the hospital. The barn, which was used for the storage of paints, was destroyed.

DRESSMAKER A SUICIDE

Too Proud to Accept Help, 60 Year-Old Woman Takes Poison.

Pittsburg, Kas., Oct. 21.—In poor health, alone in the world, unable to work and too proud to accept assistance from her many friends, Miss A. M. Conwell, a dressmaker, past 60 years of age, committed suicide by taking poison and then inhaling chloroform.

From the date of the letters found in the room, which were written to friends, it is presumed she committed the deed Saturday afternoon or evening. The body was found yesterday.

The letters, which told a pathetic tale of her struggles, were written, one to Mrs. Young, a sister living in Atchison, Kas., and the other to a supposedly wealthy brother, C. N. Conwell, of Santa Rosa, Cal.

CENTENNIAL OF MASONS

Ohio Grand Lodge Was Launched 100 Years Ago.

Cincinnati, O., Oct. 21.—Cincinnati is thronged today with Masons from all over the state, here to participate in the centennial celebration of the Ohio grand lodge.

It was just 100 years ago that Masonry was launched in the Buckeye state, and the anniversary will be fittingly observed during the next three days. A parade with 10,000 Masons in line, with bands and flags in profusion, is one of the features of the program.

There are 75,000 Masons in the state and a large portion of them are already here or will come later. Elaborate exercises and addresses by distinguished Masons will be held in Music hall.

WHY SUFFER

Breathe Hyomei and Kill the Loathsome Catarrh Germs.

Just as long as you have catarrh your nose will itch, your breath will be foul, you will hawk and spit, and you will do other disgusting things because you can't help yourself. The germs of catarrh have got you in their power; they are continually and persistently digging into and irritating the mucous membrane of your nose and throat. They are now making your life miserable; in time they will sap your entire system of its energy, its strength, its vigor and vitality.

But there is one remedy that will kill the germs and cure catarrh, and that is Hyomei, the Australian dry air treatment.

The W. E. Bard Drug Co. will guarantee Hyomei to cure catarrh, or money back. Don't delay this pleasant antiseptic treatment. Breathe in Hyomei and kill the germs.

The W. E. Bard Drug Co. will sell you a complete Hyomei outfit, including inhaler, for only $1.00. It is also guaranteed to cure bronchitis, asthma, coughs, colds, hay fever and croup.

FRIENDS OF THE INDIAN

SIXTH ANNUAL LAKE MOHONK CONFERENCE IN SESSION IN NEW YORK.

OBJECT: AID DEPENDENT PEOPLES

Affairs of the Red Men Constitute the Subject of Discussion Today—Tomorow the Philippine Affairs.

Mohonk Lake, N. Y., Oct. 21.—Humanitarians of every profession and walks in life, including clergymen, journalists, educators, army officers and government officials, are assembled today at the opening of the twenty-sixth annual Lake Mohonk Conference of Friends of the Indian and Other Dependent Peoples. The sessions are held here annually nad have accomplished much good in the past.

Indian affairs constitute the subject of discussion at the opening session today, the speakers including Francis E. Leupp, commissioner of Indian affairs; James S. Sherman, republican candidate for vice president; the Rev. George L. Spining, of California; Superintendent Friedman, of the Carlisle Indian school, and about twenty officials of the Indian service.

Tomorrow will be devoted to Philippine affairs, with addresses by Major General J. Franklin Bell, Chief of the United States army; W. Cameron Forbes, member of the Philippine commission; Henry C. Ide, of Vermont, ex-governor of the Philippines; Senor Pablo Ocampo, Filipino commissioner of the United States congress; John T. McDonough, formerly of the Philippine supreme court; Mason S Stone, formerly superintendent of Manila schools; E. J. Hill, member of congress from Connecticut; Charles Hopkins Clark, editor of "The Hartford Courant;" Captain J. E. Bloom, U. S. A., and others.

Hawaii and Porto Rico will be discussed on the last day, the speakers including Edwin G. Dexter, Porto Rican commissioner of education; George Cabot Ward, auditor of Porto Rico; Senor Martin Travieso, jr., and Senor Rodriguez Serra, of San Juan; Charles Hartzell, formerly secretary of Porto Rico; ex-Governor George B. Carter, of Hawaii, and W. A. Bryan, of Honolulu.

Other leading men who may speak include Dr. Lyman Abbott, Dr. Samuel J. Barrows, Dr. Arthur J. Brown, John Crosby Brown and Henry M. Leipziger, of New York; Colonel Hugh L. Scott, commandant at West Point; Rear Admirals Samuel W. Very and George C. Remey, U. S. N.; Robert Watchorn, commissioner of immigration at New York; John W. Alling, of New Haven; Dr. Charles F. Meserve, of Raleigh, N. C.; the Rev. John Timothy Stone, of Baltimore; President James M. Taylor, of Vassar college; John A. Sleicher, of "Leslie's Weekly;" William Hayes Ward, of "The Independent;" William V. Kelly, of "The Methodist Review;" the Rev. Dr. John B. Devins, of "The Observer;" A. E. Dunning, of "The Congregationalist;" John B. Drury, of "The Christian Intelligencer;" Thomas O. Conant, of "The Examiner," and H. L. Bridgman, of "The Brooklyn Standard-Union."

A married man who permits any member of the family to take anything except Foley's Honey and Tar, for coughs, colds and lung trouble, is guilty of neglect. Nothing else is as good for all pulmonary troubles. The genuine Foley's Honey and Tar contains no opiates and is in a yellow package. Arlington Pharmacy.

Wed by Rev. Beggs.

Frank B. Griffin, of Smithton, and Miss Ethel Potter, of Clifton City, were united in marriage by Rev. F. S. Beggs, pastor of the Methodist church at Smithon, Tuesday.

An Extended Interval.

Two clergymen in a southern state were once discussing the process of sermon writing, when one of them remarked that the only really hard propositions for him were the introduction and the conclusion.

"You remember," said he, "the sermon I preached at the installation of Brother Morley not long ago? Well, I flattered myself that the exordium and the peroration of that sermon were pretty well done."

"Yes," responded the other divine, with a faint smile, "but, as I remember, they were awfully far apart."

TO EXCHANGE.

I have some good wheat land in Western Kansas to exchange for Sedalia property, from quarter section on up; have a cash price of $10 per acre, worth more. One-half section 16 miles west of Denver; take residence. All money makers.—H. E. Huston. Phones 157. 605 East Third street.

What Ails You?

Do you feel weak, tired, despondent, have frequent headaches, coated tongue, bitter or bad taste in morning, "heartburn," belching of gas, acid risings in throat after eating, stomach gnaw or burn, foul breath, dizzy spells, poor or variable appetite, nausea at times and kindred symptoms?

If you have any considerable number of the above symptoms you are suffering from biliousness, torpid liver with indigestion, or dyspepsia. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is made up of the most valuable medicinal principles known to medical science for the permanent cure of such abnormal conditions. It is a most efficient liver invigorator, stomach tonic, bowel regulator and nerve strengthener.

The "Golden Medical Discovery" is not a patent medicine or secret nostrum, a full list of its ingredients being printed on its bottle-wrapper and attested under oath. A glance at its formula will show that it contains no alcohol, or harmful habit-forming drugs. It is a fluid extract made with pure, triple-refined glycerine, of proper strength, from the roots of the following native American forest plants, viz., Golden Seal root, Stone root, Black Cherrybark, Queen's root, Bloodroot, and Mandrake root.

The following leading medical authorities, among a host of others, extol the foregoing roots for the cure of just such ailments as the above symptoms indicate: Prof. R. Bartholow, M. D., of Jefferson Med. College, Phila.; Prof. H. C. Wood, M. D., of Univ. of Pa.; Prof. Edwin M. Hale, M. D., of Hahnemann Med. College, Chicago; Prof. John King, M. D., Author of American Dispensatory; Prof. Jno. M. Scudder, M. D., Author of Specific Medicines; Prof. Laurence Johnson, M. D., Med. Dept. Univ. of N. Y.; Prof. Finley Ellingwood, M. D., Author of Materia Medica and Prof. in Bennett Medical College, Chicago. Send name and address on Postal Card to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., and receive free booklet giving extracts from writings of all the above medical authors and many others endorsing, in the strongest possible terms, each and every ingredient of which "Golden Medical Discovery" is composed.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets regulate and invigorate stomach, liver and bowels. They may be used in conjunction with "Golden Medical Discovery" if bowels are much constipated. They're tiny and sugar-coated.

Weak Kidneys

Weak Kidneys, surely point to weak kidney Nerves. The Kidneys, like the Heart, and the Stomach, find their weakness, not in the organ itself, but in the nerves that control and guide and strengthen them. Dr. Shoop's Restorative is a medicine specifically prepared to reach these controlling nerves. To doctor the Kidneys alone, is futile. It is a waste of time, and of money as well.

If your back aches or is weak, if the urine scalds, or is dark and strong, if you have symptoms of Brights or other distressing or dangerous kidney disease, try Dr. Shoop's Restorative a month—Tablets or Liquid—and see what it can and will do for you. Druggist recommend and sell

MR. CARNEGIE TO SPEAK

AT THE NATIONAL RIVERS AND HARBORS CONGRESS IN WASHINGTON.

MEETING TO BE HELD IN DECEMBER

The Steel Magnate, It Is Said, Has Already Commenced Work On His Address—Favors Waterways Extension.

Washington, Oct. 21.—Definite announcement has been made that Andrew Carnegie will be one of the principal speakers at the National Rivers and Harbors congress in Washington in December.

The steel magnate, it is said, has already commenced work on his address, which will be a masterly presentation of the desirability of the extension and development of waterways traffic.

Andrew Carnegie, while not actively engaged in business, is still interested as a stockholder in factories and mines whose output runs in the hundreds of millions, and as a shipper of iron ore, coal, steel, iron, etc., is peculiarly fitted to speak as a citizen of the United States upon existing conditions in the transportation business of the country, and the needs of waterways to move the bulky freight.

Not alone as a citizen of the United States can Mr. Carnegie speak on the imperative needs of better water facilities for handling our products, but as a cosmopolite who has made a study of water and rail transportation of many countries, and as the rest of the world is a competitor of the United States his recommendations for the improvement of our waterways will emphasize the advanced position taken by the National Rivers and Harbors congress.

TO WED EDITOR NIBLACK

Engagement to Bowles Denied and Statement Given Out.

Dallas, Texas, Oct. 21.—Governor C. N. Haskell, of Oklahoma, who made the principal address at the Bryan day exercises at Texas state fair yesterday declared that there was no truth in the report that his daughter, Miss Jane Haskell, is engaged to marry Samuel Bowles, Jr., a Harvard student from Springfield, Ill.

He delegates Mrs. Haskell to speak for him in the matter, and Mrs. Haskell said that Miss Haskell is engaged to Leslie G. Niblack, of the Guthrie, Ok., Leader. Mrs. Haskell said: "So far as know, my daughter has never seen Mr. Bowles more than once or twice, and then just casually. It is true that she is engaged to Mr. Niblack.

APE THE CUSTOMS OF EUROPE.

Caste Spirit as It Is Manifested in Europe.

There are no classes in American society, it is true, but in Philadelphia they have traditions and prejudices that "draw the line" now and then pretty effectively. For example, the 24 grand-tier boxes in the Hammerstein opera house in that city are not sold by auction but allotted to the elite by a committee of five women of ancient Philadelphia ancestry. "We want opera in Philadelphia," said one of the committee, "but we do not want the best seats in the house to go to everyone who applies just because he has money enough to buy them. We want the seats in the grand tier to go to the representative Philadelphia families who have a right to them." The "hobo millionaire" does not break into society in Philadelphia. His grandson may get on the waiting list.

The Unreliable Clock.

Mrs. Blank had been paying a charitable visit to poor old Victorine Dupreux, whom she found crippled with rheumatism. But if Victorine's limbs were disabled, her always entertaining tongue was not, and the time passed swiftly.

"Mercy!" at last cried the lady, glancing at the clock that ticked wheezily above the French woman's stove. "Here it is five o'clock and I should have gone home half an hour ago!"

"Geeve you'self no distress, madame," reassured Victorine. "Monsieur dose clock, she ees tole lie hon herself for more zan seex year. She ees now to a preciseness one hour fast an' 15 minute slow."

TRUNKS TOO FLIMSY

MR. STOGGLETON THINKS HE HAS KICK COMING.

Many Things Happened in a Short Time to Receptacle with Which He Was Traveling—Not What They Were.

"In the garret of the old house back home," said Mr. Stoggleton, "I used to see old hair-covered trunks that I think must have been scores of years, I don't know but what centuries, old; trunks that looked as if they'd never wear out and never could be worn out, and I guess are there still if the moths haven't eaten them up, and it seems to me as if all trunks were made stronger in those days than they are in the present advanced era. Those old trunks all used to seem rockbound, as if nothing could break them, whereas the trunks of now, or some of them anyway, must be handled pretty gingerly if you want to get through with them.

"You take that last trunk I bought. It looked solid and massive; great heavy bulging metallic corners on it and no end of clamps and thick straps, it looked as if a giant might throw it down from a mountain and not do it any harm; but in the course of three trips one of the handles pulled off, those massive corner pieces turned out to be stamped tin and the clamps of the same material, and one strap broke and the buckle of the other pulled off and the bottom of the trunk was split and the cleats inside the trunk spread so far apart that they let the tray fall through to the bottom and, generally the trunk got so wabbly and rickety that the next time the baggage man came for it he said to me as he ended it up so that he could get hold of the sole remaining handle:

"'You know it really ain't safe for the trunk to travel, don't you?'

"But we put a brand new heavy solid strap around it and buckled it up tight and the trunk went through without falling apart, and now we're going to have a trunk doctor come in and give us an estimate on the cost of repairs, that is, as far as it can be repaired, for it never was and it couldn't be made a solid trunk. It was originally a pretty good looker, but it had no constitution.

"Now, you know, you can't charge all that damage up to the baggage men; it was originally a flimsy trunk. You say we travel more now than they used to? Yes, I know that, and I know that we can't expect a trunk toted around every day in the year to last as long as one carried once a year, and still that doesn't account for the way my trunk went up the flume.

"You don't suppose, do you, the trunk makers make 'em that way now so that they will wear out fast, to make more business? No, no; that can't be so; the trunk makers wouldn't do that; it must be just the way trunks are made now days.

"What? Was this trunk of mine a cheap trunk? Why, yes, it was a cheap trunk, but what's that go to do with it? Trunks ought to wear, hadn't they? I tell you trunks are not what they were."

CORN GROWERS OF TEXAS

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE HOLDING A MEETING IN DALLAS TODAY.

NAME PLACE OF WINTER MEETING

Association Has Distributed Over $1,200,000 in Premiums and Merchandise Since Its Organization.

Dallas, Texas, Oct. 21.—A meeting of the executive committee of the Texas Corn Growers' association was convened here today in the rooms of the Dallas Commercial club, for the purpose of selecting a place and date for the midwinter meeting of the association and the annual Texas Corn show.

The Texas Corn Growers' association has, from its organization, been one of the largest and most influential agricultural associations in the state.

It has held meetings in Dallas, Waco, Terrell, and at College Station in connection with the Farmers' congress. Its meetings have hitherto been largely attended by farmers and business men from various parts of the state and is looked upon as a progressive and wide-awake association.

Through the co-operation of the business interests of Dallas, Denton, Fort Worth, Denison and other cities, besides the places in which meetings have been held, it has been able to distribute over $1,200,000 in cash and merchandise premiums for meritorious exhibits of seed corn.

Besides these regular premiums the association will, this year, award the magnificent Holland trophy cup, offered by the Texas Farm and Ranch, and the gold medal known as the Denison Board of Trade medal, offered by the Denison Board of Trade, as an inducement to stimulate seed improvement by Texas corn growers.

BANK EXAMINER FIRED

Alleged That He Closed Bank for Political Reasons

Coalgate, Ok., Oct. 21.—Exonerating the officers of the Bank of Coalgate and commending the removal of Herbert H. Smock, bank examiner of Oklahoma, the grand jury today submitted a report of its investigations of the closing of the Bank of Coalgate, a state institution, operating under the provisions of the state guaranty law.

Smock is charged with closing the bank for politcal reasons.

G. H. AYERS

The Dry Candidate for Sheriff

When the different candidates ask you for your vote YOU ASK THEM to name some perpetual law-breakers of Pettis county; ask them to name at least four gambling dens in Sedalia, who run them and who rents the building for this purpose; then ask them where liquor is illegally sold in Pettis county and if they commence to stutter or bite their finger nails, just ask them to honestly confess whether they are competent to fill the office.

Our candidate, Mr. G. H. Ayers, the Dry Candidate for Sheriff, has all of these things spotted. Now if the people want to see the law enforced, remember that Mr. Ayers will DO IT. He has been sixteen years a cowboy and you can depend upon it that he will enforce the law. He will enter any gambling den in Sedalia at any time he thinks there is a game going on. Now you can depend upon this. We ask you to help us elect him.

THE DRY EXECUTIVE COM.

JAMES R. BARKLEY TONIGHT

Noted Clay Modeler and Cartoonist at First Christian Church.

Tonight the second of the series of lectures under the auspices of the Second Lecture Course will be held at the First Christian church, with Hon. James R. REPORT OF GOULD LINES

RESULT OF OPERATION SHOWN FOR THE MISSOURI PACIFIC SYSTEM.

SURPLUS OF ONE MILLION ON HAND

The Decrease in the Freight and Passenger Revenue Is Due to General Depression and Hostile Legislation.

The twenty-eighth annual report of the Missouri Pacific Railway company for the year ended June 30 was issued in St. Louis Tuesday from the general offices. The report covers the results of operation of the Missouri Pacific and its branch lines, the Central branch and the St. Louis, Iron Mountain and Southern. The following is a summary:

Gross revenues		$44,238,702.99
Operating expenses (71.5 per cent of gross earnings .		31,646,287.57
Net revenues ..		$12,592,415.42
Income from other sources ..		2,875,297.91
Total income.		$15,467,713.33
Less charges as follows:
Taxes $1,644,056.73
Interest on bonds ... 9,007,369.20
Rentals paid for leased lines 137,820.00
Equipment trust expenses .. 65,110.98
Hire of equipment 957,555.38
Sundry other charges 670,084.57		12,481,996.86
Leaving amount applicable to dividends		$2,985,716.47
From which has been declared dividend No. 58—2½ per cent on $774,084.
Surplus from the year's operations ...		$1,050,506.47

President Gould's Comments.

President George Gould calls attention to the fact that dividend 58 was fully earned during the first six months' operations, but because of the severe business depression which began in the latter part of October, and the probabilities of its continuance throughout the remainder of the fiscal year, the directors deemed it prudent to reserve the cash for future contingencies, and pay the dividend in capital stock of the company.

Mr. Gould remarks that the reclassification of accounts by the interstae commerce commission and the desirability of conforming substantially thereto, make comparisons with former years difficult in certain items of revenue and expenditures, as, for instance, that of $957,555.38 for "hire of equipment." Heretofore nearly all of this, if incurred, would have appeared in operation expenses (designated as car mileage or per diem charges), whereas now it stands as a charge against income, the same as interest on funded debt, taxes, rentals, etc. A year and a half ago, anticipating heavy balances in per diem charges or "hire of equipment," because of the encouraging growth of tonnage and revenues, the management arranged for important increases in motive power and freight equipment, in consequence of which about 7,000 new freight cars were received during the fiscal year.

Concerning general conditions the president says: "The fiscal year opened with a better promise of business than that realized the previous year, and the first four months showed substantial increase in gross earnings of $1,304,701.74; but the depressed business conditions which set in throughout the country the latter part of October, and prevailed during the remainder of the year, affected the traffic of the company most seriously. This, coupled with reductions in freight and passenger rates by legislatures and railroad commissions in six of the states, had the effect of decreasing the gross receipts from operation by $4,464,639.56, as compared with the previous year. Recently the United States circuit court for the Eastern district of Arkansas, temporarily enjoined the Arkansas railroad commissioners from continuing the reduced freight and passenger rates within that state. Litigation is also being proceeded with as to the reasonableness of the low rates prescribed by the public authorities of other states. The crop prospects are very good and a gradual return of confidence and better business conditions are being displayed, which it is hoped will result in much better earnings the ensuing year."

Plea for Higher Rates.

Vice President C. S. Clarke, in submitting a report in detail, states that the revenues from passenger traffic for the year decreased $1,025,730.13, or 10.58 per cent, partly on account of the general depression in business and partly by the application, under protest, in six of the states, of the low rate of 2 cents per mile, ordered by the public authorities. Considering the sparse population of many of the districts traversed, more especially the branch lines and the new and thus far undeveloped lines constructed in the last three or four years, a rate of 2 cents per passenger mile does not compensate the company for the service performed. The freight earnings for the past year were $31,423,577.35, which was a decrease, compared with those of the previous year, of $4,086,611.36. The financial disturbance in October produced a depression in the general business of the country, from which the industrial and commercial interests have not yet recovered. Merchandising, manufacturing, mining, the lumber business and other trades and industries suffered severely, and products of the farm were held, owing to the uncertainty of markets.

It is necessary that the carriers obtain higher rates than now prevail. The large additions to cost of operation forced upon the railroads within the last few years by the higher prices of labor and materials, as well as the many costly exactions of the national and state governments and the imperative demands of the business public for a more prompt and higher standard of service, have so swelled the expenses as to reduce the margin of profit to a figure that is not adequate to meet the financial requirements of the railroads. The unceasing attention of the traffic and law officers is necessary directed toward securing such reasonable rates for the service performed as will prove compensatory.

New Industries.

For the year there were established 330 industries of various kinds, in which were invested a capital of $17,359,000, and which promised the company 136,780 car loads of freight annually. Expert examinations of the iron-producing sections of Missouri were conducted last year, and, as a result, three companies have been organized and chartered to carry on iron mining operations. Commercial clubs are being organized at many points to co-operate with the company toward the establishment of industries in their respective localities, and all are meeting with success.

YOUNG GIRL WAS A GUARD

ONE OF THOSE IN CHARGE OF A BATCH OF TWENTY-SEVEN CONVICTS.

BEING TAKEN TO THE PENTENTIARY

Miss Lottie Ward, Bell Telephone Co. Operator in Kansas City, in a New Role on a Missouri Pacific Train.

Telephone operators have other qualifications that make them useful besides being able to call "Number," or "Did they answer?" as was evidenced by a young lady of that occupation who was a passenger through Sedalia on Missouri Pacific train No. 2 Saturday noon.

The lady in question, who furnished proof that members of her calling are equal to the emergency in many cases, was Miss Lottie Ward, a Bell telephone operator in the court house at Kansas City.

Though not at home in that line, she performed her duties admirably, and caused no little comment among spectators at the station who witnessed her actions during the brief stay of the train in this city.

Miss Ward was an active guard in charge of twenty-seven Jackson county prisoners who were being transported from Kansas City to the state penitentiary at Jefferson City on that train. Al Heslip, marshal of Jackson county, and several male guards and Miss Ward, were in charge.

Among the prisoners were a thirty-year murderer, another sentenced to prison for life for murder, and Thomas Saxton, a negro, who was arrested by the Sedalia police, and who was given five years for the attempted murder of a Kansas City policeman who had attempted his arrest.

Miss Ward, who has been connected with the telephone service of Kansas City for some time, occupied a seat in the rear of the batch of prisoners in a coach at the head of the train. She appeared perfectly contented with her odd task, and talked cheerfully with spectators who eyed her with awe, wondering if she was in charge or in custody.

Miss Ward's task Saturday was the first of that kind in her career, and was merely to give her an outing. She seemed perfectly contented in fulfilling her mission, and had no horror of being thrown in contact with criminals of the worst class, whereas so many of her sex would shudder at the thought of even riding in the same car with the convicts.

THE RICE-LEE NUPTIALS

Young Lady Is a Sister of Mr. Will Lee, of This City.

Miss Stella Lee, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Lee, of Leeton, Mo., and a sister of Will Lee, the well known coffee salesman of this city, will be united in marriage to Clarence E. Rice, a traveling salesman out of Denver, Colo., at her home at Leeton at 4 o'clock on the afternoon of Tuesday, October 27.

Rev. Dr. John will perform the ceremony in the presence of only immediate relatives, and the bridal couple will leave over the Rock Island railway that day for Denver, where they will make their home.

Miss Lee is a pretty and accomplished young lady, popular and well liked by every acquaintance, and heartiest congratulations will be extended to her that she and her intended husband may enjoy a long and happy life of wedded bliss.

THE PRAIRIE ON FIRE

Between Towns of Smithton and Otterville Friday.

Scott Murphy, who on Friday took a load of tombstones to Smithton for Frank L. Farley, informs the Democrat-Sentinel that sparks from a passing Missouri Pacific engine set fire to the prairie near Smithton Friday forenoon and burned over a large area between Smithton and Otterville.

A large number of telegraph and telephone poles were burned, together with fences and meadows. A high wind fanned the flames.

Rain is badly needed throughout Central Missouri.

Mrs. Burrowes Is Improving.

Mrs. E. B. Burrowes, who successfully underwent a surgical operation for an aggravated atack of nervousness at Maywood hospital Friday afternoon, showed a marked improvement Saturday and the attending physician predicted a permanent cure for the ailment. Quietude is still advised by the doctor and friends will not be admitted for several days.

WEDDED TWENTY YEARS

POPULAR SEDALIA COUPLE CELEBRATE NUPTIAL ANNIVERSARY.

HELD A RECEPTION LAST NIGHT

Over One Hundred Friends Called to Felicitate Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Ludemann on Passing of Score of Years of Nuptial Joy.

Twenty years ago Saturday, at the German Evangelical church in this city, Henry C. Ludemann, superintendent of Liberty park, was united in marriage to Miss Clara Dickman. Rev. Edward Klinpke, then of Sedalia, but now of Chicago, performed the ceremony.

From 8 to 12 o'clock last night a hundred friends of Mr. and Mrs. Ludemann assembled at the Ludemann residence to celebrate the occasion. Various pieces of chinaware, in commemoration of a china wedding celebration, were presented to the host and hostess and attested their esteem and popularity to a noticeable degree.

Brandt's orchestra was present and rendered a select musical program, and punch was served during the evening. Toward the departing hour buttered sandwiches, chicken salad, potato chips, olives, coffee, pickles, ice cream and cake were served.

After the midnight hour the five score of guests departed for their homes, voting Mr. and Mrs. Ludemann affable entertainers in the most minute sense of the word.

Among those present were twenty-five out-of-town relatives and friends, while the list of presents also included remembrances from non-Sedalians.

Mr. and Mrs. Ludemann have remained in Sedalia continuously since their marriage and with their three children command the esteem and respect of every acquaintance.

WANTS SALOON LICENSE

THIS, TOO, IN FACE OF THE FACT THAT COUNTY ADOPTED LOCAL OPTION. 4

A MAN AT STURGEON IS APPLICANT

Latest Move Is to Compel County Court to Grant Him a License —Case Will Come Up on October 31st.

Columbia, Mo., Oct. 17.—The local option question, which was supposed to have been settled in Boone county last February, is still worrying some people who have somehow acquired a notion that the law was made to fill the statute books and not to be enforced.

Shortly after the local option election G. W. Ousley appeared before the county court and asked for a license to run a dramshop in Sturgeon. He alleged certain irregularities in the election which made it invalid.

The county court refused to grant the license and an appeal was taken to the circuit court.

It either failed to come up at the last term or was disposed of in some manner, and now Ousley, through his attorney, O. S. Barton, of Fayette, comes before the court, asking for an alternative writ of mandamus, directing the county court to grant him a license.

The writ was made returnable on Oct. 31 and will be argued on that day.

STANDS BY STATEMENT

NATHAN STRAUS ACCUSES REPUBLICAN TREASURER OF LEVYING TRIBUTE.

HE OFFERS TO PROVE ALLEGATION

Brother of One of Roosevelt's Cabinet Offers to Prove That Shelton Has Invaded Wall Street for Contributions.

New York, Oct. 17.—"If Treasurer Sheldon, of the republican national committee will appoint a committee of three or four respectable men who expect nothing from politics, I will appear before them and prove that the committee is demanding $500 apiece from Wall street men," said Nathan Straus, of the Democratic Business Men's league, today. This was Mr. Straus' reply to a statement from Mr. Sheldon, printed today, declaring that the charge made by Mr. Straus yesterday that the republican national committee is assessing Wall street men $500 each was a falsehood.

"You don't suppose I would have made any such statement unless I knew it to be true, do you?" Mr. Straus asked. And he continued:

"I would not. I know it is true. Mr. Sheldon's reply that my charge is a lie is no argument. I won't say how much he has collected. But I am ready and able to prove the specific incident.

"In the last presidential campaign when Judge Parker told about campaign funds and told of how they were being collected by the republicans, Mr. Roosevelt declared that the statement was false, though it was true, nevertheless. I believe that at that time Mr. Roosevelt did believe that Judge Parker's statements were false, but this man Sheldon knows he is telling a lie."

The statement of Mr. Straus was repeated to Mr. Sheldon, who said:

"I don't believe Mr. Straus would make that statement to me. I have no reply other than this to make except to ask how it could be possible for anybody to go into Wall street or any other street to make a levy."

Chairman Hitchcock, who was present when Mr. Sheldon made his reply, said that when the list of republican contributions is published, as it will be twenty days after the election, it will refute all of the statements that have been made in regard to political levies of contributions.

THE HAINES' INDICTED

For the Murder of William E. Annis in August Last.

New York, Oct. 17.—Indictments charging Capt. Peter C. Haines, Jr., and his brother, T. Jenkins Haines, with murder in the first degree were handed up by the Queens' county grand jury at Flushing, L. I., today.

The indictments are based upon the killing of William E. Annis at Bayside Yacht club in August last.

Mrs. Shoemaker Operated Upon.

Dr. M. C. Alderman returned Saturday afternoon from St. Louis, where the previous day he operated upon Mrs. John Shoemaker, of this city, at Mayfield hospital, for a cancer. The patient stood the operation very well, and was resting nicely when Dr. Alderman left the Mound City.

Mrs. W. H Highleyman entertained the Sans Gene club Friday, the prize, a silver fork, going to Mrs. J. W. Menefee, Jr.

FACE A MURDER CHARGE

BOY ONLY FOURTEEN YEARS OF AGE DOWN AT ORONOGO, MISSOURI.

CASE MUCH OUT OF THE ORDINARY

Youth Who Killed Companion by Stabbing Him in the Abdomen in Fight Must Be Tried for His Life.

Carthage, Mo., Oct. 17.—Will a jury send to the gallows a lad of 14 years?

This question was asked among court officials when Prosecutor Clyde Compton filed information charging Logan Harris, of Oronogo, with "wilful, deliberate and premeditated" murder.

Harris slew Earl McCartney at a picnic ground, on Spring River, on a Sunday afternoon several weeks ago.

They became involved in a boyish altercation, terminating in a fight, in which Harris drew a knife and stabbed McCartney in the abdomen, inflicting wounds from which he died several days later.

McCartney is alleged to have been armed with a bared knife at the time of the stabbing, and the case of the state will be met with a plea of self-defense.

This morning, following the filing of information against Harris, the lad was brought to division No. 2 of the circuit court and arraigned before Judge Hugh Dabbs.

When the information charging first degree murder was read to him, the lad desired to enter a plea of not guilty, but his attorney having failed to appear, the court would not permit this, and he was returned to the county jail, the sheriff being instructed to return him to make formal plea to the indictment.

RECEIVED DEATH MESSAGE

A Son of Mrs. R. L. Hale Died in Wisconsin Friday.

(From Sunday's Daily.)

Mrs. R. L. Hale, of Fourth street and Moniteau avenue, received a telegram Friday announcing the death of her son, George L. Seely, who died of brain trouble in a hospital at Jefferson, Wis., at 10 o'clock Friday morning.

Deceased was a single man, 47 years old. Mrs. Fannie C. Smith, a sister, left early yesterday for Jefferson to attend the funeral services. Burial will be made there.

SHOT HIMSELF IN THE HEAD

Judge Howell Did While Court Was Awaiting His Arrival.

Newark, N. J., Oct. 17.—Judge Howell, of the criminal court in this city, shot himself in the head in a park today while court was waiting for him to appear. He died in a short time.

Judge Howell was criticised in the political campaign, and last night challenged his accusers to reply to questions he asked them.

GERMAN BALLOON PICKED UP

It Is Believed That the Two Occupants Perished.

Yarmouth, England, Oct. 17.—The German balloon, Hergesell, was picked up in the North sea, one hundred miles northwest of Heligo land, by the Norwegian steamer Naddod.

There was no sign of the occupants, Lieut. Foertsch and his assistant. It is believed they have perished.

Burning Grass Caused Alarms.

Burning grass at the home of Fred Helm, 1505 West Third street, at 1:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon, was the cause of a run by the fire department, but no damage resulted.

Fire company No. 1 made a second run to a prairie fire at Saline and Hill streets at 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon, but no damage resulted.

THE DRAWING FOR LAND

LOUISIANA LOTTERY CO. IN PALMY DAYS NOT IN IT WITH UNCLE SAM.

WHEEL REVOLVING AT DALLAS, S.D

One-Fifth of the Purchase Money to Be Paid at the Date of Entry and Remainder in Five Equal Payments.

Dallas, S. D., Oct. 19.—The Louisiana Lotter Co., in its palmiest days, was never able to arouse so much interest in a drawing as has Uncle Sam's personally conducted game of chance in disposing of the Rosebud lands in Tripp county. Today the wheel of fortune began revolving and the agents of Uncle Sam's Land Lottery, limited, will dole out to the possessors of lucky tickets the choicest 160-acre farms in the 800,000-acre reservation, formerly occupied by the warlike Sioux.

The lottery will continue until all the lucky tickets have been drawn from the wheel. Then the happy few will congratulate each other upon the fairness and justness of Uncle Sam's little lottery, and the disgruntled many will return to their homes all over the country, muttering maledictions on fate and South Dakota and land lotteries and things in general.

Persons who are successful in this drawing will be permited to make entry on one-quarter section, or less, under the homestead laws, at some date after March 1, 1909, and may obtain title by making the required residence and cultivation and the payment of $6 per acre for all lands entered prior to June 1, 1909, or $4.50 an acre for lands entered under the president's proclamation after that date.

One-fifth of the purchase money must be paid on the date of the entry, and the remainder in five equal annual payments, without interest.

If an entryman chooses to do so he can obtain this title after fourteen months' actual residence and cultivation, by paying all the deferred installments.

There are no settlements on any of these lands, and several townsites will be located in suitable places and reserved from homestead entry before March 1, 1909.

A STORY OF "CHESTNUTS"

Mr. J. C. Brown Brought Them Home From Pennsylvana.

J. C. Brown, a railway mail clerk, returned Friday night from a visit with his brother at Philadelphia, Pa. He brought with him excellent samples of Pennsylvania chestnuts, which are now on display in one of the front windows of the Bargain Store, and which would put to shame the luscious pecans which Mr. Brown's old army comrade, G. F. Tuley, formerly brought to Sedalia from Texas, while the latter was running out of this city.

Mr. Brown says his uncle has many trees bearing chestnuts, and recently he gathered thirty bushels, which he disposed of at $4.50 per bushel in New York.

The Capture of Sedalia.

(From Sunday's Daily.)

Major William Beck informs the Democrat-Sentinel that forty-five years ago today, October 18, 1863, Gen. Jeff Thompson and his command of troops captured Sedalia. It was a day of excitement, Major Beck says, as is shown by reference to the History of Pettis County.

Notice is hereby given to the creditors of Newton Cannon that on Monday, the 7th day of December, 1908, at the opening of the circuit court of Pettis county, Missouri, or as soon thereafter as counsel can be heard, I shall apply to the Pettis county circuit court for a discharge from my trust as assignee of Newton Cannon.

State Commander Coming.

(From Monday's Daily.)

Mrs. May A C. Sommers, of St. Louis, state commander of the Ladies of the Maccabees, will be here to attend the regular meeting of the local hive Wednesday afternoon of this week, and will dliver an address. The ladies are arranging for a ball at the Sedalia Printing Co. hall the night of October 29.

Notice of Appeal Filed.

William G. Wallace, owner of a candy stand in front of the Sedalia National bank, was fined $1 for resisting an officer by a jury in police court Saturday. His attorney, Mark McGruder, filed notice of appeal. Wallace had been notified by Officer Barnett to quit selling candy on Ohio street during fair week and he refused to do so. The arrest followed.

The Original "Topsy" Dies.

Boston, Oct. 17.—Mrs. George C. Howard, well known at one time as an actress, and the original Topsy in the dramatized form of "Uncle Tom's Cabin," died during Thursday night at her home in Cambridge. Mrs. Howard's maiden name was Caroline S. Fox, and she was born in Boston in 1829.

AN ENTHUSIASTIC MEETING

Many Initiations in Dresden Council, K. and L. of S.

Forty-five out of forty-eight members of the new council of the Knights and Ladies of Security of Dresden were present at their regular meeting Saturday night, and a very enthusiastic session was held.

Nine applications for membership were received, and the following candidates were initiated:

Prof. Francis Tuttle, G. C. Rothwell, Henry Jackson, Liz Bentley, Mrs. Mary Bentley, Miss Della Brown, Lewis Harmon, Warner Jackson, John Bradley, Harry Wallington and Dal Bentley.

Arrangements were made to give a Hallowe'en social Saturday night, Oct. 31, when a musical and literary program will be rendered, and refreshments of pumpkin pie, milk, etc. will be served.

TAFT TOURING NEW YORK

Will Sweep Through Empire State, New Jersey and Delaware Today.

Washington, Oct. 19.—Before leaving Washington early today, Judge Taft discussed the future demands of the campaign, and said he hoped to be able to complete his work by conserving his voice. The itinerary for today covers New York, New Jersey and Delaware, ending with a big meeting in Baltimore tonight at which Secretary Garfield will preside. Tuesday will be devoted to Maryland and West Virginia.

SO DECEPTIVE.

Many Sedalia People Fail to Realize Its Seriousness.

Backache is so deceptive.

It comes and goes—keeps you guessing.

Learn the cause—then cure it.

Nine times out of ten it comes from the kidneys.

That's why Doans Kidney Pills cure it.

Cure every kidney ill from backache to diabetes.

Here's a Sedalia case to prove it:

J. M. Logan, 616 West Fifth street, Sedalia, Mo., says: "I have never had lumbago nor kidney trouble since I first used Doan's Kidney Pills some years ago. At that time I was suffering quite severely, and when I saw them advertised I immediately procured a box at the W. E. Band Drug Co. I keep them constantly in the house, but have had no occasion to use them for some time. I can endorse Doan's Kidney Pills just as highly today as when I first recommended them some years ago."

For sale by all dealers. Price, 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

GIRLS HAZED SOPHOMORE

Seven Young Women Bound and Taunted a Large Man.

Alton, Ill., Oct. 19.—Seven freshmen girls in Shurtleff college have established a precedent by hazing, unaided, a large sophomore man.

Raymond Carr, a sophomore, was beguiled around a corner of the college building, where he was overpowered and bound by seven freshmen girls, who were waiting for him.

Although he fought with all his strength and until his clothes were in rags, he was bound securely to a convenient tree where he was forced to endure the taunts and jeers of his captors.

After enduring innumerable indignities at the hands of his fair captors he was finally rescued by members of the faculty.

SIGNS OF THE WEATHER

HOW THE GOOSEBONE PROPHETS PREDICT WHAT WE MAY ANTICIPATE.

IS SAID THESE RULES NEVER FAIL

An Unusual and Early Winter Follows Thick Husks of Corn—Are Squirrels Storing Away Nuts In Missouri?

Is the crop of red haws larger than usual this fall? Are squirrels unusually active in storing away nuts? Are flocks of ducks flying south in U-shaped formations instead of V-shaped? If so, then prepare for a "long, hard winter."

Many centuries before scientific methods were discovered for foretelling immediate changes in the weather, there were persons who, basing their knowledge on the ordinary observations of nature, dared to forecast a whole season's weather.

Thick husks of corn of a deep orange tint; the goosebone being larger and whiter than usual; the crops of nuts, immense in quantity and the squirrels laying in great stores of them; the partridges and woodchucks fearlessly approaching farm yards; the muskrats building larger and thicker "houses"—are some of the signs taken to indicate an unusually early and severe winter.

"If the oak bears much mast, it foreshadows a long and hard winter," is an old and familiar saying.

Ice and cold in November are taken as a promise of warm weather about Christmas time. Hence the proverb, "If the ice bear a man before Christmas it will not bear a mouse after." And again:

If there's ice in November that will bear a duck,
There'll be nothing after but sludge and muck.

There is a familiar saying attached to Hallowe'en, October 31:

If ducks do slide at Hollantide,
At Christmas they will swim,
If ducks do swim at Hollantide,
At Christmas they will slide.

Birds and beasts all are more or less sensitive to coming changes in the weather and by observing their movements warning of changes in the weather may be noted.

Among other instances it is observed that sea birds, as stormy weather comes on, fly inland in search of food; wild fowls leave the mashy grounds for higher localities; swallows fly low before and during bad weather; frogs are unusually noisy before a rain; at the approach of a storm sheep huddle together near bushes and trees.

Only those animals that must lay up a store of food for the winter or must brave the weather in search of it are regarded as authorities on future weather conditions for long periods ahead.

The winter finds the groves and meadows deserted except by few forms of animal life. The birds are in the south—Florida, Cuba, and even South America; the snakes, lizzards, frogs and toads are sleeping underground insensible to cold or hunger; the insects have been destroyed or are hibernating; only the foxes, muskrats and a few other beasts are left out in the cold.

If at the beginning of winter the fur of these animals is observed to be thicker than usual it is taken by the weatherwise as an indication of a severe winter.

Executor's Notice.

Notice is hereby given that letters testamentary on the estate of Jesse D. Conkle, deceased, were granted to the undersigned on the third day of October, 1908, by the probate court of Pettis county, Missouri.

George Washington

UNTO every generation of Americans George Washington is justly held to be the purest figure in history—a superb example of the perfect citizen—a just and righteous ruler and "a light for after time."

This commanding personality had magnificent physique. He stood over six feet in his stockings, was remarkable for horsemanship, agility and strength—the finest gentleman and athlete of his day.

His constitution was of iron, and he knew how to keep it so. His biographers declare that in eating and drinking as in all things he was normal; enjoying the juice of the malt all the days of his life. He drank it around campfires, as well as in his own home and upon social and state occasions.

Furthermore, upon his Mount Vernon plantation he had a brew house, as was the regular custom of wealthy Virginians.

STOLE A PAIR OF SHOES

Because of This Fact John Hickey Is in Jail.

(From Sunday's Daily.)

Henry Bryant, Sedalia's robust merchant policeman, whose nightly maneuvers through the down town alleys are watched eagerly by all classes of criminals as well as petty offenders, scored a beat over the night force Friday night when he arrested and lodged in jail a man named John Hickey, on suspicion of having stolen a pair of shoes from Courtney's shoe store.

While pedestriating through the alley in the rear of the Ilgenfritz building, late Friday night, Henry espied the criminal. The later took an unceremonious departure and disappeared in an indescribable manner.

The eagle eye of the "sleuth" has never yet failed Henry, and he at once set out to locate his man. In a cunning way, peculiarly his own, Henry espied the man on West Main street.

Like a lion pouncing on a lamb, Henry seized the man and in truly metropolitan style escorted him to the city calaboose, where he slumbered peacefully until 9 o'clock Saturday morning, when Police Judge Gresham sentenced him to thirty days in the holdover.

A Woman's Back

Has many aches and pains caused by weaknesses and falling, or other displacement, of the pelvic organs. Other symptoms of female weakness are frequent headache, dizziness, imaginary specks or dark spots floating before the eyes, gnawing sensation in stomach, dragging or bearing down in lower abdominal or pelvic region, disagreeable drains from pelvic organs, faint spells with general weakness.

If any considerable number of the above symptoms are present there is no remedy that will give quicker relief or a more permanent cure than Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It has a record of over forty years of cures. It is the most potent invigorating tonic and strengthening nervine known to medical science. It is made of the glyceric extracts of native medicinal roots found in our forests and contains not a drop of alcohol or harmful, or habit-forming drugs. Its ingredients are all printed on the bottle-wrapper and attested under oath as correct.

Every ingredient entering into "Favorite Prescription" has the written endorsement of the most eminent medical writers of all the several schools of practice—more valuable than any amount of non-professional testimonials—though the latter are not lacking, having been contributed voluntarily by grateful patients in numbers to exceed the endorsements given to any other medicine extant for the cure of woman's ills.

You cannot afford to accept any medicine of unknown composition as a substitute for this well proven remedy OF KNOWN COMPOSITION, even though the dealer may make a little more profit thereby. Your interest in regaining health is paramount to any selfish interest of his and it is an insult to your intelligence for him to try to palm off upon you a substitute. You know what you want and it is his business to supply the article called for.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are the original "Little Liver Pills" first put up by old Dr. Pierce over forty years ago, much imitated but never equaled. Little sugar-coated granules—easy to take as candy.

ATTORNEY GENERAL HADLEY NAMES AN ASSISTANT IN THE WORK.

MR. GRAY TO SERVE WITHOUT PAY

That Is, So Far As State of Missouri Is Concerned—Will Also Investigat Police Department of the City.

Hannibal, Mo., Oct. 17.—Herbert S. Hadley has appointed Howard Gray as special assistant attorney general to prosecute gamblers and other offenders in Jasper county.

Mr. Gray was elected circuit judge of Jasper county four years ago, but resigned to return to the active practice of law in the last few months.

Repeated appeals have come from Jasper county for action by the attorney general to suppress bambling and investigate some charges concerning members of the police department in Joplin.

Democrats and republicans, including Judge Scott, of the circuit court, joined in the request.

Friday they renewed their request by telephone and also recommended Judge Gray, so Hadley appointed him, with the understanding that he is to serve without pay so far as the state is concerned.

PROFITS ARE $200,000

THE NEW YORK GIANTS HAD TRULY HIGHLY PROSPEROUS SEASON.

SURPASSES ALL PREVIOUS YEARS

About 7664,000 Persons Paid to See New York Nationals at Polo Grounds in Gotham—Cubs Attracted the Most.

New York, Oct. 17.—The New York Giants, although tying with Pittsburg for second place in the National league race, earned more money for their owners than any other team.

New York's profits for the year are in the neighborhood of $200,000—the biggest clean-up ever made by a club in the big leagues.

There was only one day when the attendance got near the 1,000 mark, that date being Aug. 6, when Cincinnati, against their wishes, were compelled to play a game started long after the schedule time. Then it rained until 3:30 o'clock and the field was thoroughly soaked.

Through the gates of the Polo grounds there passed this year some 764,000 enthusiastic fans, who before getting past the argus-eyed ticket takers settled at the box office.

The average paid attendance per day at the Polo grounds was almost 11,000, this figure being based on conservative estimates. There were seventy actual playing days, the biggest crowd of the year being the one that assembled Friday, Sept. 18, to watch the double-header with Pittsburg.

According to Secretary Will Locke, of the Pittsburg club, he was paid for almost 30,000 admissions on that day. Ten other turnouts were well past the 20,000 notch. Only once did an eastern club draw one of these financial plums. The others went to the westerners, Chicago getting more than its share, viz., seven. The Pittsburgs twice attracted over 20,000 to the Brush Stadium.

Chicago on eleven afternoons shared in the receipts of 215,000 setling citizens. The Pittsburgs came next in point of attractiveness and prosperity. They showed here eleven times and split up the coin of 163,000 fans, who were anxious to see their craft turn turtle.

The other clubs were not so fortunate as the visitors from the west. Brooklyn played at the Polo grounds before 101,000 fans, Cincinnati before 100,000, St. Louis before 67,000, Boston before the same number and Philadelphia before 61,000.

A DINING IN THE COUNTRY

By Mr. and Mrs. Lacy in Honor of Mr. S. C. Hurt, of Virginia.

Mr. and Mrs. James Lacy, on Wednesday, October 14, gave a dining at their home, near Beaman, in honor of Mr. S. C. Hurt, of Virginia, who is visiting his son, J. W. Hurt, east of Beaman.

At 12 o'clock a most sumptuous dinner was served, consisting of roast mutton and all the good things to be had, daintily prepared, under the supervision of Mrs. Lacy, and it was enjoyed to the fullest extent by all present.

Mr. Hurt, the visitor, seems much impressed with Missouri, and especially her fair daughters. He attended the state fair and was surprised at the magnitude of the institution.

Among those present at the dining were Uncle George Lacy and wife, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Wherley, Mr. S. C. Hurt and son, J. W., and family, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Saloway, Mr. and Mrs. Allie Wherley and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Pollard, Uncle Billy Pollard and daughter, Miss Anna, Mr. and Mrs. Ellison Wood and son, Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Allen and daughter, Miss Josie, and Mr. Bird True.

Mrs. Lacy was assisted in entertaining by her sister-in-law, Mrs. C. C. Shy, of Sedalia.

All enjoyed the dinner and day to the fullest extent, and departed for their homes at a late hour in the evening, voting Mr. and Mrs. Lacy charming entertainers.

BEUTH-CONDON WEDDING

It Will Be Solemnized by Fr. Neiberg October 28th.

Joseph H. Beuth, an M., K. & T. upholsterer, and Miss Etta Frances Condon, daughter of Mrs. Mary E. Condon, 1209 East Ninth street, will be united in marriage by Rev. Fr. S. Neiberg at nuptial mass as Sacred Heart church at 8 o'clock on the morning of October 28.

Frank Wagner will serve as groomsman and Miss Stella A. Condon, sister of the bride-to-be, will serve as bridesmaid.

After the solemnization of the event the bridal couple and members of the immediate families will partake of a luncheon at the home of the bride, and the couple will leave that night for a ten days' visit at Parsons, Kas., and Kansas City, after which they will return here to make their home with Mrs. Condon.

Mr. Beuth is a son of Herman Beuth, 801 East Sixth street, and is a worthy young man in every particular.

His bride-to-be is a refined and cultured young lady, admired by every acquaintance, and best wishes will be extended to the happy young couple that both may live to enjoy along and happy married life.

MADE WOMEN'S CLOTHES

"FUSSY" FEMALE PATRONS WERE RESPNSIBLE FOR SUICIDE OF TAILOR.

COULD NOT STAND IT ANY LONGER

A Man Who for Seventeen Years Made Garments for the Fair Sex in New York City Was Talked to Death.

New York, Oct. 17.—Max Krone, 42, a woman's tailor, died from a bullet wound he inflicted on himself because his customers were "too fussy" over their clothes, and "talked him to death."

"It was a clear case of suicide through a fit of temporary insanity, brought on by worry over women's clothes," said the attending physician.

Twenty years ago Krone came to this countyr from Russia and started in business as a woman's tailor on the east side. He prospered and in three years was able to send for his sweetheart in Russia.

After their marriage, Krone decided there was more profit in up-town business, so he moved to 79 West Forty-seventh street, where he rented work rooms on the first floor, with living rooms above.

Mr. and Mrs. Krone lived happily for seventeen years. His business increased steadily each year and four children were born. Krone, according to all who knew him, was an exemplary husband. He was kind to his family and had no bad habits.

"I know of no reason," said Mrs. Krone, "for my husband's suicide. The only thing that I can imagine is that he was tired of the worries of the business. He said frequently to me last week. 'I will not be a woman's tailor any more. They drive me crazy. They talk me to death.'"

HAD TO KILL THE HORSE

One of Its Legs Broken in a Runaway Accident.

A. M. Illias, who resides on a farm three miles south of Hughesville, while returning home from that village Friday afternoon, met with quite a serious accident.

His team, which was hitched to a farm wagon, became frightened at an old newspaper in the road and ran away, breaking a leg of one of the horses and damaging the wagon.

Mr. Illias escaped injury, but the horse, which was a valuable one, had to be killed.

Died Saturday Afternoon.

Mrs. Emma Gallant died of a complication of diseases at her home on South Grand avenue Saturday afternoon, aged 48 years. The body will be shipped to Bedford, Ia., today for burial.

They Have a Daughter.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Payton, of 216 South Prospect avenue, are the proud parents of a pretty daughter, born at their home Friday night.

LOOK OUT FOR THIS FELLOW

If All Reports Are True, He's Working a Skin Game.

A correspondent of the Marrshall Democrat-News had the following in Saturday's issue of that paper:

"A man giving his name as Stephenson, representing himself to be the field agent of the Mountain Grove experiment station, is selling a dark liquid to keep apples and other fruit from falling, curing blight in the pear and apple, and killing the worm of the coddling moth by applying said liquid to the roots of the tree when the leaves begin to fall in the fall.

"Paul Evans, of the Mountain Grove experiment station, says the man is a fraud, and has nothing to do with the station.

"Let the sheriff and his deputies look for this fellow, for, according to Mr. Evans, he is obtaining money under false pretenses."

WORKING COUNTY PRISONERS

Buchanan County Following in Footsteps of Greene.

County Highway Engineer Fred J. Marshall yesterday sent to the county highway engineer of Buchanan county, in which the city of St. Joseph is located, three photographs showing views of the outfit owned and operated by this county for working county prisoners on the public roads, says the Springfield Republican of Sunday.

This was done at the request of Curtis Hill, state highway engineer, who wrote Mr. Marshall that Buchanan county was just starting out to work its prisoners and that the engineer there was anxious to find out what he could about the work in other counties.

The photographs showed the portable jail, the traction engine and wagons, and the third showed the outfit at work with the rock crusher owned by the county.

Home From Visit in Illinois.

N. P. Nelson, of Hughesville, returned Saturday from a week's visit to his old home in Knox county, Illinois. Mr. Nelson says the corn crop in that section of the country is splendid, and will average 65 bushels to the acre, while the wheat threshed out from 30 to 40 bushels. Politics, he says, is at fever heat, and both parties are confidently expecting to carry the state.

CONSIDERS BATTLE WON

CHAIRMAN MACK SAYS HE'S CONFIDENT OF MR. BRYAN BEING ELECTED.

TIDE TURNED TOWARD DEMOCRACY

Not One Discouraging Report Has Been Received—New York, Ohio and Indiana Safe for the Democratic Ticket.

Chicago, Oct. 17.—National Chairman Mack, who has been in Chicago for nearly two weeks directing the fight in the west for the election of the democratc ticket, departed last night for the east.

After registering at his home in Buffalo Mr. Mack will go to New York to look over the situation in New York and the east.

"When I came west two weeks ago," Mr. Mack said, "I realized that the tide had turned toward democracy and every indication pointed to victory for the democratic ticket in November. The situation is far better now than then and I return east confident in the election of Mr. Bryan.

"I have not received one discouraging report. Mr. Bryan will not only receive the majority of the electoral vote, but one of the greatest popular votes ever given a candidate.

"The fight is won, but we must keep everlastingly at it for the coming two weeks of the campaign. It is too early to give out figures and I will not attempt to do so, but I will say now that New York, Ohio and Indiana are democratic this year and my prediction does not take into consideration a number of other states that will swing from republican to democratic column two weeks from Tuesday."

SITTING BULL'S BODY

Indian Uprising Likely if Their Dead Are Disturbed.

St. Paul, Minn., Oct. 17.—Word has been received here that an outbreak of the Sioux Indians is likely to occur at Fort Yates, N. D., if the bodies are removed from the Indian graves there.

With the intention of abandoning the post, an order was recently made to remove the bodes of all dead in the cemeteries, including soldiers, civilians and Indians, to the national military cemetery at Keokuk, Ia.

The contract was awarded to a St. Paul firm, but the restlessness of the indians caused the Indian agent, Col. McLaughlin, so much uneasiness that the work of the contract has been delayed for six weeks.

The principal reason for the Indians' action is said to be from the fact that Sitting Bull, the great war chief, is buried there. The general cause, however, is said to be their superstitious belief that if the bodies are disturbed the dead Indians will be thrown out of their happy hunting grounds.

HAD A GOOD MEETING

Hon. C. W. Hamlin and Hon. O. M. Barnett Friday Night.

Hon. Courtney W. Hamlin, democratic candidate for congress in the Seventh district, addressed a large meeting at the court house Friday night.

Mr. Hamlin confined his remarks principally to the injunction plank of his party's platform and made an eloquent plea for the national ticket.

The audience was made up largely of employes of the Missouri Pacific and Missouri, Kansas & Texas railway shops, all of whom seemed in thorough sympathy with the speaker. Hon. O. M. Barnett, candidate for the state senate, also spoke, his remarks commending the closest possible attention of his audience.

Mr. Barnett laid special stress on the fact that the democratic party of Missouri stands for the rule of government affairs by the people. He called attention to the growth of Mr. Bryan the past twelve years, and reviewed his own record as representative in the house of representatives, calling special attention to his active support of the fellow servant law, which was enacted in 1907, when he was the member from Pettis.

BUYS MORE REAL ESTATE

"HANS" WAGNER, WHO IS LEADING BATTER IN NATIONAL BASEBALL LEAGUE.

GETTING READY FOR A RAINY DAY

Rather, for the Day When He Cannot Amble Around the Diamond and Fix His Own Salary for Season's Work.

Pittsburg, Oct. 16.—Driving in his big touring car, "Hans" Wagner, champion batsman of the country, yesterday came to Allegheny court house and signed papers, taking over three big lots of land in his home town, Carnegie.

"Just preparing against the day when I can't see a ball," said the "Flying Dutchman," as he signed away his season's profits in one big check.

"Yes, I always save my money. All the boys don't, I'm told, and I'm sorry for it."

Wagner is now one of the heaviest real estae owners in Carnegie. He has a business block and bowling alley among his assets, also a chicken farm, big brewery stock, railroad stock, two autos and thirty-seven blooded dogs.

Was Accidentally Shot.

A young man named Wheeler, a member of a moving party en route from Moberly to Sedalia, was accidentally, but not dangerously, shot by another member of the party named Wray, at a point northeast of Georgetown, Friday, while the two were hunting rabbits.

The contents of a shotgun shell penetrated Wheeler's face and hands. He was attended by Dr. Harris, of Georgetown.

BABY'S VOICE

Is the joy of the household, for without it no happiness can be complete. Angels smile at and commend the thoughts and aspirations of the mother bending over the cradle. The ordeal through which the expectant mother must pass is such that she looks forward with dread to the hour when she shall feel the thrill of motherhood. Every woman should know that the danger and pain of child-birth can be avoided by the use of Mother's Friend, which renders pliable all the parts, assisting nature in its work. By its aid thousands of women have passed this crisis in safety. $1.00 per bottle of druggists. Valuable book of information to women sent free.

Women as Well as Men Are Made Miserable By Kidney and Bladder Trouble.

Kidney trouble preys upon the mind, discourages and lessens ambition; beauty, vigor and cheerfulness soon disappear when the kidneys are out of order or diseased.

Kidney trouble has become so prevalent that it is not uncommon for a child to be born afflicted with weak kidneys. If the child urinates too often, if the urine scalds the flesh, or if, when the child reaches an age when it should be able to control the passage, it is yet afflicted with bed-wetting, depend upon it, the cause of the difficulty is kidney trouble, and the first step should be towards the treatment of these important organs. This unpleasant trouble is due to a diseased condition of the kidneys and bladder and not to a habit as most people suppose.

Women as well as men are made miserable with kidney and bladder trouble and both need the same great remedy. The mild and the immediate effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It is sold by druggists, in fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles. You may have a sample bottle by mail free, also a pamphlet telling all about Swamp-Root, including many of the thousands of testimonial letters received from sufferers cured. In writing Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., be sure and mention this paper. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

DAUGHTER SLAYS FATHER

Texas Girl, 16, Ordered to Field, Uses Pistol When Attacked.

Dallas, Texas, Oct. 17.—J. W. Griffith, a white farmer, was shot and killed near Taylor, Texas, the revolver being held by his 16-year-old daughter, Bessie.

The father, against the will of other members of the family, commanded the girl to go to the cotton field, and when she refused he advanced upon her with a knife, threatening to kill them all unless she obeyed. Two shots were fired, both bullets piercing Grimth's left breast.

34 Trains In and Out of Sedalia Every 24 Hours

HAD HEADON COLLISION

TWENTY-FIVE PERSONS HURT IN A WRECK NEAR RICH HILL SUNDAY.

MISHAP ON THE MISSOURI PACIFIC

Passenger Crew Misunderstood Orders to Wait for Freight—Five Persons Dangerously Hurt—Crews Saved Themselves.

(From Monday's Daily.)

The Injured.

George C. Greenup, postmaster of Pleasant Hill, Mo.; back hurt and internal injuries.

G. B. Thompson, engineer of the passenger train; badly bruised.

Everett Hart, fireman of the freight train; bruises on body.

T. J. Jones, 35 years old, Nevada, Mo.; fireman on the passenger train; left shoulder broken, both legs bruised, internally injured.

Joseph Huff, 12 years old, Rich Hill, Mo.; legs crushed.

E. Heffner, 40 years old, Rich Hill, Mo.; freight engineer; right wrist broken, hips bruised.

Frank Klingan, Nevada, Mo.; express messenger; both hands bruised, left leg sprained, probably internally injured.

In a head on collision between a northbound passenger train and a southbound freight train on the Lexington & Southern or Joplin division of the Missouri Pacific railway near Rich Hill, Mo., shortly after 11 o'clock Saturday night, twenty-five persons were injured, five dangerously.

A misunderstanding of orders on the part of the crew of the passenger train was the cause of the wreck.

Missouri Pacific passenger train No. 210, due in Kansas City at 5 o'clock yesterday morning, left Ovid, a little station two miles north of Rich Hill, for Kansas City at 10:46 o'clock Saturday night. One-half mile out of the town on a curve the train met a Missouri Pacific Red line freight train, No. 253.

J. E. Thompson, engineer of the passenger, saw the freight coming in time to bring his train to a standstill. The engines crashed together, with the freight train of twenty cars going at the rate of twenty miles an hour. Frank Klingan, a messenger in the mail car, was internally injured and received bad hurts on both lands.

There were nine coaches in the train, which was in charge of C. Y. Lawrence, of Sedalia, conductor. The passengers were badly shaken up and many received bruises.

George C. Greenup, a former clerk and operator in Sedalia, but now postmaster of Pleasant Hill, Mo., received spinal and internal injuries. He was taken to his home. His condition is dangerous.

G. B. Thompson, engineer on the passenger engine, jumped and was injured. T. J. Jones, the fireman, jumped, fell on his left shoulder, and was buried under flying timbers from the freight cars.

The members of the crew of the freight train were J. E. Ferguson, conductor; E. Heffner, engineer, and Everett Hart, fireman. In jumping the engineer broke his wright wrist.

The first four cars in the freight train were crushed into kindling wood, sending timbers flying for yards around. The next four were derailed and rolled into the ditch.

Joseph Huff, a 12-year-old boy of Rich Hill, Mo., was riding the rods of one of the freight cars, beating his way. He fell under the wheels and his legs were crushed. The left one was amputated yesterday in Rich Hill. Jones, Heffner and Klingman were taken to Kansas City last night to be treated at the Missouri Pacific hospital.

"There was a misunderstanding of orders," Jones said last night. We were supposed to wait for the freight at Ovid until 10:55. We left at 10:46. The first intimation I had of danger was when the engineer jumped down from his seat yelling 'Jump! jump!' He jumped out at one side and I made for the other."

In Honor of Miss Latimer.

Mrs. H. W. Servant entertained the members of the Tuesday Whist club at her home Saturday in honor of Miss Mildred Latimer. The club prize, a glass botte of perfume, went to Miss Latimer, while the guest prize, a similar present, went to Miss Florence Floyd.

REDUCTON MUST COME.

Tariff reduction is bound to come. The interests of the people as against world-wide influences making for the privileged classes demand it, and closer relationships among the nations will compel it more and more as time goes on. If our high schedules could not be touched in the day of a prosperity which was attributed to them, then the time for revision and reduction must be in this day of industrial adversity, which has exposed the hollowness of that claim. If the republicans cannot prove themselves equal to the task then the job will certainly be handed over to others.

SEDALIA LADY ELECTED

Secretary of the Missouri State Library Association.

The following officers to serve one year were elected by the Missouri State Library association in session at Moberly Friday:

President, H. O. Severance, Columbia; first vice president, Mrs. Bessie S. Lee, Moberly; second vice president, Willis Kerr, Fulton; secretary, Miss Florence Whittier, Sedalia; treasurer, Clarence E. Miller, St. Louis.

The time and place of the next meeting will be selected by the executive board. Columbia will probably be chosen.

Trustee's Sale.

Whereas, Albert Jenkins and Becka Jenkins, husband and wife, by their certain Deed of Trust, dated the 13th day of August, 1902 and recorded in the Recorder's office of Pettis County, Missouri, at Trust Deed Book 142, page 282, conveyed to the undersigned, M. F. Prigmore, Trustee, all their right, title, interest and estate, in and to the following described real estate, situated in the County of Pettis, State of Missouri, viz: The west half of lots one and two (1 and 2) of the Northwest quarter of Section four (4) in Township forty-seven (47) of Range twenty three (23) containing 86 acres, more or less. Which said conveyance was made in trust to secure the payment of a certain promissory note in said deed described, and whereas said note has become due and is unpaid, now therefore, in accordance with the provisions of said Deed of Trust, and at the request of the legal holder of said note, I will proceed to sell the above described Real Estate at the west door of the Court House in the city of Sedalia, in the County of Pettis, State of Missouri, to the highest bidder for cash, at public auction, on Friday, the 30th day of October, A. D. 1908, between the hours of nine in the forenoon and five in the afternoon of that day, to satisfy said note, together with the cost and expenses of executing this trust.

M. F. PRIGMORE,
Trustee.

Dated this 8th day of October, A. D. 1908.

PAIN

Pain in the head—pain anywhere, has its cause. Pain is congestion, pain is blood pressure—nothing else usually. At least, so says Dr. Shoop, and to prove it he has created a little pink tablet. That tablet—called Dr. Shoop's Headache Tablet—coaxes blood pressure away from pain centers. Its effect is charming, pleasingly delightful. Gently, though safely, it surely equalizes the blood circulation.

If you have a headache, it's blood pressure.
If it's painful periods with women, same cause.
If you are sleepless, restless, nervous, it's blood congestion—blood pressure. That surely is a certainty, for Dr. Shoop's Headache Tablets stop it in 20 minutes, and the tablets simply distribute the unnatural blood pressure.
Bruise your finger, and doesn't it get red, and swell, and pain you? Of course it does. It's congestion, blood pressure. You'll find it where pain is—always. It's simply Common Sense.
We sell at 25 cents, and cheerfully recommend

A CASE IN POINT.

Newspaperdom quotes and commends some remarks recently made by the manager of a well known department store. "We have," he says, "six different makes of one toilet article; and they are so near alike in quality that even experts can't tell the difference between them. Yet we sell as much of one as we do of all the others together. And why? It is because the manufacturer is everlastingly advertising it. The other five sell in proportion to the amount of advertising given to them." The necessity for persistent advertising was never more apparent than it is today.

Respectfully submitted.—J. W. Mellor Secretary.

A Letter of Thanks.

The following letter is self explanatory:

Sedalia, Mo., Oct. 16, 1908. Mr. W. H. Barnett, President Business Men's Association, Sedalia, Mo. Dear Sir: On behalf of the board of directors of the Missouri state fair, I want to express to you the appreciation of the fair board, and the people of the state for the efforts put forth by the business men of Sedalia to take care of the large number of visitors attending the 1908 exhibition. Too much credit can not be given the Business Men's association, and especially to Mr. J. W. Mellor, secretary, for the able manner in which the visitors were taken care of. We have not yet heard one complaint from any one, stating that they were unable to find desirable lodgings during fair week.

This is of inestimable value to the Missouri state fair, and speaks volumes for the splendid citzenship of Sedalia. The citizens who were kind enough to open their homes for state fair visitors are certainly showing the right spirit in helping to make the Missouri state fair a great success, all of which is appreciated by the people of the state. Very truly yours.—John T. Stinson, Secretary.

S.S.S. CURES ECZEMA, ACNE, TETTER ETC.

The skin is an index to the quality of the blood. Eczema, Acne, Tetter, pimples, rashes, eruptions, etc., show that some unhealthy humor or acid impurity is diseasing and corrupting the circulation, so that instead of supplying nourishment and strength to the fine, delicate tissues of the skin it is continually pouring out its acrid and unhealthy accumulations. External applications of salves, washes, lotions, etc., may relieve some of the itching and other discomfort caused by skin troubles, and for this reason should be used, but such treatment cannot reach the humor-laden blood, and therefore cannot cure. A thorough cleansing of the blood is the only cure for skin diseases. S. S. S., a purely vegetable preparation, is the best and quickest remedy. It goes down into the circulation and neutralizes and removes the acids, impurities and humors, thoroughly purifies the circulation and permanently cures skin diseases of every kind. When S. S. S. has driven the humors and impurities from the blood, and cooled and cleansed the acid-heated circulation, every symptom passes away, the skin is again nourished with rich, healthful blood and the trouble cured, as the cause has been removed. Behind her the door closed softly; and there followed a thud as a bolt was shot. An instant later Anisty caught her by the arm and, roughly now and without wasting speech, hurried her into the next room. Then, releasing her, he turned up the lights and, passing to the windows, threw two or three of them wide; for the air in the room was stale and lifeless.

"And now," said the criminal in a tone of satisfaction, "now we can talk business, my dear."

He removed his overcoat and hat, throwing them over the back of a convenient chair, drew his fingers thoughtfully across his chin, and, standing at a little distance, regarded the girl with a shadow of a saturnine smile softening the hard line of his lips.

She stood where he had left her, as if volition was no longer hers. Her arms hung slack at her sides and she was swaying a trifle, her face vacant, eyes blank; very near the breaking-down point.

The man was not without perception; and recognized her state—one in which, he felt assured, he could get very little out of her. She must be strengthened and revived before she would or could respond to the direct catechism he had in store for her. In his own interest, therefore, more than through any yielding to motives of pity and compassion, he piloted her to a chair by a window and brought her a glass of clear cold water from the filter in the adjoining room.

The cold, fresh breeze blowing in her face proved wonderfully invigorating. She let her head sink back upon the cushions of the easy, comfortable leather chair and drank in the clean air in great deep draughts, with a sense of renewing vigor, both bodily and spiritual. The water helped, too; she dabbled the tip of a ridiculously small handkerchief in it and bathed her throbbing temples. The while, Anisty stood over her, waiting with discrimination if with scant patience.

What was to come she neither knew nor greatly cared; but, with an instinctive desire to postpone the inevitable moment of trial, she simulated deadly languor for some moments after becoming conscious of her position; and lay passive, long lashes all but touching her cheeks—in which now a faint color was growing—gaze wandering at random out over a dreary wilderness of flat rectangular roofs, livid in the moonlight, broken by long, straight clefts of darkness in whose depths lights gleamed faintly. Far in the south the sky came down purple and black to the horizon, where a silver spark glittered like a low-hung star—the torch of Liberty.

"I think," Anisty's clear-cut tones, incisive as a razor edge, crossed the listless trend of her thoughts, "I think we will now get down to business, my lady!"

She lifted her lashes, meeting his masterful stare with a look of calm inquiry. "Well?"

"So you're better now? Possibly it was a mistake to give you that rest, my lady. Still, when one's a gentleman-cracksman—!" He chuckled unpleasantly, not troubling to finish his sentence.

"Well?" he mocked, seating himself easily upon an adjacent table. "We're here at last, where we'll suffer no interruptions to our little council of war. Beyond the watchman, there's probably not another soul in the building; and from that window there it is a straight drop of 24 stories to Broadway, while I'm between you and the door. So you may be resigned to stay here until I get ready to let you go. If you scream for help, no one will hear you."

"Very well," she assented mechanically, turning her head away with a shiver of disgust. "What is it you want?"

"The jewels," he said, bluntly. "You might have guessed that."

"I did—"

"And have saved yourself and me considerable trouble by speaking ten minutes ago."

"Yes," she agreed, abstractedly.

"Now," he continued, with a hint of anger in his voice, "you are going to tell."

She shook her head slightly.

"Oh, but you are, my lady." And his tone rasped, quickened with the latent brutality of the natural criminal. "And I know that you'll not force me to extreme measures. It wouldn't be pleasant for you, you know; and I promise you I shall stop at nothing whatever to make you speak."

No answer; in absolute indifference, she felt, lay her strongest weapon. She must keep calm and self-possessed, refusing to be terrified into a quick and thoughtless answer.

"This afternoon," he said, harshly, "you stole from me the Maitland jewels. Where are they?"

"I shall not tell."

He bent swiftly forward and took one of her hands in his. Instinctively she clenched it; and he wrapped his strong hard fingers around the small white fist, then deliberately inserted a hard finger joint between her second and third knuckles, slowly increasing the pressure. And watched with absolute indifference the lines of agony grave themselves upon her smooth unwrinkled forehead, and the color leave her cheeks, as the pain grew too exquisite. Then, suddenly discontinuing the pressure, but retaining her hand, he laughed shortly.

"Will you speak, my lady, or will you have more?"

"Don't," she gasped, "please—"

"Where are the jewels? Will you?"

"No."

"Have you given them to Maitland?"

"No"

"Where are they?"

"I don't know."

"Stop that nonsense unless— Where did you leave them?"

"I won't tell—I won't. Ah, please, please!"

"Tell me!"

"Never. Ah-h!"

An abrupt and resounding hammering at the outer door forced him to leave off. He dropped her hand with an oath and springing to his feet drew his revolver; then, with a glance at the girl, who was silently weeping, tears of pain rolling down her cheeks, mouth set in a thin pale line of determination, strode out and shut the door after him.

As it closed the girl leaped to her feet, maddened with torture, wild eyes casting about the room for a weapon of some sort, of offense or defense; for she could not have endured the torture an instant longer. If forced to it, to fight, fight she would. If only she had something, a stick of wood, to defend herself with. But there was nothing, nothing at all.

The room was a typical office, well but severely furnished. The rug that covered the tile floor was of rich quality and rare design. The neutral-tinted walls were bare, but for a couple of steel engravings in heavy wooden frames. There were three heavily upholstered leather arm-chairs and one revolving desk-chair; a roll-top desk, against the partition wall, a waste-paper basket, and a flat-topped desk, or table. And that was all.

Or not quite all, else the office equipment had not been complete. There was the telephone!

But he would hear! Or was the partition sound-proof?

As if in contradiction of the suggestion, there came to her ears very clearly the sound of the hall door creaking on its hinges, and then a man's voice, shrill with anger and anxiety.

"You fool! Do you want to ruin us both? What do you mean—"

The door crashed to, interrupting the protest and drowning Anisty's reply.

"I was passing," the new voice took up its plaintive remonstrance, "and the watchman called me in and said that you were telephoning for me—"

"Damn the interfering fool!" interrupted Anisty.

"But what's this insanity, Anisty? What's this about a woman? What—" The new-comer's tones ascended a high scale of fright and rage.

"Lower your voice, you ass!" the burglar responded, sternly. "And—"

He took his own advice; and for a little time the conference was conducted in guarded tones that did not penetrate the dividing wall save as a deep rumbling alternating with an impassioned squeak.

But long ere this had come to pass the girl was risking all at the telephone. Receiver to ear she was imploring central to connect her with Ninety-eight-nine Madison. If only she might get Maitland, tell him where the jewels were hidden, warn him to remove them—then she could escape further suffering by open confession.

"What number?" came central's languid query, after a space. "Did you say nine-ought-nine-eight?"

"No, no, central. Nine-o-eight-nine Madison, please, and hurry—hurry!"

"Ah, I'm ringin' 'em. They ain't answered yet. Gimme time. There they are. Go ahead."

"Hello, hello!"

"Pwhat is ut?"

Her heart sank; O'Hagan's voice meant that Maitland was out.

"O'Hagan—is that you? Tell Mr Maitland—"

"He's gawn out for the noight an'—"

"Tell him, please—"

"But he's out. Ring up in the marnin'."

"But can't you take this message for him? Please—"

The door was suddenly jerked open and Anisty leaped into the room, face white with passion. Terrified, the girl sprang from the desk, carrying the instrument with her, placing the revolving chair between her and her enemy.

"The brass bowl, please—tell him that," she cried clearly into the receiver.

And Anisty was upon her, striking the telephone from her grasp with one swift blow and seizing her savagely by the wrist. As the instrument clattered and pounded on the floor she was sent reeling and staggering halfway across the room.

As she brought up against the flat-topped desk, catching its edge and saving herself a fall, the burglar caught up the telephone.

"Who is that?" he shouted, imperatively, into the transmitter.

Whatever the reply, it seemed to please him. His brows cleared, the wrath that had made his face almost unrecognizable subsided; he even smiled. And the girl trembled, knowing that he had solved her secret; for she had hoped against hope that the only words he could have heard her speak would have had too cryptic a significance for his comprehension.

As, slowly and composedly, he replaced the receiver on its hook and returned the instrument to the desk, a short and rotund figure of a man, in rumpled evening dress and wearing a wilted collar, hopped excitedly into the room, cast at the girl one terrified glance out of eyes that glittered with excitement like black diamonds, set in a face the hue of yeast, and clutched the burglar's arm.

"Oh, Anisty, Anisty!" he cried, piteously. "What is it? What is it? Tell me!"

"It's all right," returned the burglar. "Don't you worry, little man. Pull yourself together." And laughed.

"But what—what—" stammered the other.

"Only that she's given herself away," chuckled Anisty; "beautifully and completely. 'The brass bowl,' says she—thinking I never saw one on Maitland's desk!—and 'O'Hagan, and who the divvle are you?' says the man on the other end of the wire, when I ask who he is."

"And? And?" pleaded the little man, dancing with worry.

"And it means that my lady here returned the jewels to Maitland by hiding them under a brass ash-receiver on his desk—ass that I was not to know! You are 'cute, my lady!" with an ironic salute to the girl, "but you've met your match in Anisty."

"And," demanded the other as the burglar snatched up his hat and coat, "what will you do, Anisty?"

"Do?" — contemptuously. "Why, what is there to do but go and get them? We've risked too much and made New York too hot for the two of us, my dear sir, to get out of the game without the profits."

"But I beg of you—"

"You needn't"—grimly. "It won't bring you in any money."

"But Maitland—"

"Is out. O'Hagan answered the 'phone. Don't you understand?"

"But he may return!"

"That's his lookout. I'm sorry for him if he does." Anisty produced the revolver from his pocket, and twirled the cylinder significantly. "I owe Mr. Maitland something," he said, nodding to the white-faced girl by the table, "and I shouldn't be sorry to—"

"And what," broke in the new-comer, "what am I going to do meanwhile?"

"Devil the bit I care! Stay here and keep this impetuous female from calling up police headquarters, for a good guess. Speaking of which, I think we had best settle this telephone business once and for all."

The burglar turned again to the desk and began to work over the instrument with a small screw-driver which he produced from his coat pocket, talking the while.

"Our best plan, my dear Bannerman, is for you to come with me, at least as far as the nearest corner. You can wait there, if you're too cowardly to go the limit, like a man. I'll get the loot and join you, and we can make a swift hike for the first train that goes farthest out of town. A pity, for we've done pretty well, you and I, old boy; you with your social entree and bump of locality to locate the spoils, me with my courage and skill to lift 'em, and an equitable division. Oh, don't worry about her, Bannerman! She's as deep in it as either of us, only she happens to be sentimental, and an outsider on this deal. She won't blab. Besides, you're ruined anyway, as far as New York's concerned. Come along. That's finished; she won't send any important messages over that wire to-night, I guess."

"My dear young lady!" Rising and throwing the overcoat over his arm, he waved his hat at her in sardonic courtesy. "I can't say it has been a pleasure to know you, but—you have made it interesting, I admit. And I bid you a very good night. The charwoman will let you out when she comes to clean up in the morning. Adieu, my dear!"

The little man bustled after him, bleating and fidgeting; and the lock clicked.

She was alone—utterly and forlornly alone—and had lost—lost all, all that she had prized and hoped to win, even—even him.

She raised fluttering, impotent white hands to her temples, trying to collect herself.

In the outer room a clock was ticking. Unconsciously she moved to the doorway and stood looking for a time at the white, expressionless dial. It was some time—a minute or two—before she deciphered the hour.

Ten minutes past two! Ah, the lifetime she had lived in the past 70 minutes! And the futility of it all!

CHAPTER XV.

The Price.

Slowly Maitland returned to the study and replaced the lamp upon his desk; and stood briefly in silence, long fingers stroking his well-shaped chin, his face a little thin and worn-looking, a gleam of pain in his eyes. He sighed.

So she was gone!

He laughed a trace harshly. This surprise was nothing more than he might have discounted, of course; he had been a fool to expect anything else of her, he was enjoying only his just deserts both for having dared to believe that the good in human nature (particularly in woman's nature) would respond to decent treatment, and for having acted on that asinine theory.

So she was gone, without a word, without a sign!

He sat down at the desk, sidewise, one arm extended along its edge, fingers drumming out a dreary little tune on the hard polished wood; and thought it all over from the beginning. Nor spared himself.

Why, after all, should it be otherwise? Why should she have stayed? Why should he compliment himself by believing that there was aught about him visible through the veneer acquired in a score and odd years of purposeless existence, to attract a young and pretty woman's heart?

He enumerated his qualities specifically; and condemned them all. Imprimis, he was a conceited ass. A fascinating young criminal had but to toss her head at him to make him think that she was pleased with him, to make him forget that she was what she was and believe that, because he was willing to stoop, she was willing to climb. And he had betrayed himself so mercilessly! How she must have laughed in her sleeve all the time, while he pranced and bridled and preened himself under her eyes, blinded to his own idiocy by the flame of a sudden infatuation—how she must have laughed!

Undoubtedly she had laughed; and, measuring his depth—or his shallowness—had determined to use him to her ends. Why not? It had been her business, her professional duty, to make use of him in order to accomplish her plundering. And because she had not dared to ask him for the jewels when he left her in the morning, she had naturally returned in the evening to regain them, very confident, doubtless, that even if surprised a second time, she would get off scot-free. Unfortunately for her, this fellow Anisty had interfered. Maitland presumed cynically that he ought to be grateful to Anisty. The unaccountable scoundrel! Why had he returned?

How the girl had contrived to escape was, of course, more easy to understand. Maitland recalled that sudden clatter of hoofs in the street, and he had only to make a trip to the window to verify his suspicion that the cab was gone. She had simply overheard his concluding remarks to the cabby, and taken pardonable advantage of them. Maitland had footed the bill. She was welcome to that, however. He, Maitland, was well rid of the whole damnable business. Yes, jewels and all!

What were the jewels to him? Beyond their sentimental associations, he did not hold them greatly in prize. Of course, since they had been worn by his mother, he would spare no expense or effort to trace and re-collect them, for that dim sainted memory's sake. But in this case, at least, the traditional usage of the Maitlands would never be carried out. It had been faithfully observed when, after his mother's death, the stones had been removed from their settings and stored away; but now they would never be reset, even should he contrive to reassemble them, to adorn the bride of the Maitland heir. For he would never marry. Of course not.

Maitland was young enough to believe, and to extract a melancholy satisfaction from, this.

Puzzled and saddened, his mind harked back forever to that carking question: Why had she returned? What had brought her back to the flat? If she and Anisty were confederates, as one was inclined at times to believe—if such were the case, Anisty had the jewels, and there was nothing else of any particular value so persistently to entice such expert and accomplished burglars back to his flat. What else had they required of him? His peace of mind was nothing that they could turn into cash; and they seemed to have reaved him of nothing else.

But they had that; unquestionably they had taken that.

And still the riddle haunted him: Why had she come back that night? And, whatever her reason, had she come in Anisty's company, or alone? One minute it seemed patent beyond dispute that the girl and the great plunderer were hand-in-glove; the next minute Maitland was positively assured that their recent meeting had been altogether an accident. From what he had heard over the telephone, he had believed them to be quarreling, although at the time he had assigned to O'Hagan the masculine side of the dispute. But certainly there must have arisen some difference of opinion between Anisty and the girl to have drawn from her that frantic negative Maitland had heard, to have been responsible for the overturning of the chair—an accident that seemed to argue something in the nature of a physical struggle; the chair itself lay upon its side, mute witness to a hasty and careless movement on somebody's part.

But it was all inexplicable. Eventually Maitland shook his head, to signify that he gave it up. There was but one thing to do—to put it out of mind. He would read a bit, compose himself, go to bed.

Preliminary to doing so, he would take steps to insure the flat against further burglarizing, for that night at least. The draught moving through the hall stirred the portiere and reminded him that the window in the trunkroom was still open, an invitation to any enterprising sneak-thief or second-story man. So Maitland went to close and make it fast.

As he shut down the window-sash and clamped the catch he trod on something soft and yielding. Wondering, he stooped and picked it up, and carried it back to the light. It proved to be the girl's hand-bag.

"Now," admitted Maitland in a tone of absolute candor, "I am damned. How in the dickens did this thing get there, anyway? What was she doing in my trunk closet?"

Was it possible that she had followed Anisty out of the flat by that route? A very much mystified young man sat himself down again in front of his desk, and turned the bag over and over in his hands, keenly scrutinizing every inch of it, and whistling softly.

That year the fashion in purses was for capacious receptacles of grained leather, nearly square in shape, and furnished with a chain handle. This which Maitland held was conspicuously of the mode—neither too large, nor too small, constructed of fine soft leather of a gun-metal shade, with a frame-work and chain of gun-metal itself. It was new and seemed well-filled; weighing a trifle heavy in the hand. One face was adorned with a monogram of cut gun-metal, the initials "S" and "G" and "L" interlaced. But beyond this the bag was irritatingly non-committal.

Undoubtedly, if one were to go to the length of unsnapping the little, frail clasp, one would acquire information; by such facile means would much light be shed upon the darkness. But Maitland put a decided negative to the suggestion.

No. He would give her the benefit of the doubt. He would wait, he would school himself to patience. Perhaps she would come back for it—and explain. Perhaps he could find her by advertising it—and get an explanation. Pending which, he could wait a little while. It was not his wish to pry into her secrets, even if—even if—

It was something to be smoked over. Strange how it affected him to have in his hands something that she had owned and touched!

Opening a drawer of the desk, Maitland produced an aged pipe. A brazen jar, companion piece to the ash receiver, held his tobacco. He filled the pipe from the jar, with thoughtful deliberation. And scraped a match beneath his chair and ignited the tobacco and puffed in contemplative contentment, deriving solace from each mouthful of grateful, evanescent incense. Meanwhile he held the charred match between thumb and forefinger.

Becoming conscious of this fact, he smiled in deprecation of his absent-minded mood, looked for the ash-receiver, discovered it in place, inverted beneath the book; and frowned, remembering. Then, with an impatient gesture—impatient of his own infirmity of mind—for he simply could not forget the girl—he dropped the match, swept the book aside, lifted the bowl.

After a moment of incredulous awe, the young man rose, with eyes a-light and a jubilant song in the heart of him. Now he knew, now understood, now believed, and now was justified of his faith!

After which depression came, with the consciousness that she was gone, forever removed beyond his reach and influence, and that by her own willful act. It was her intelligible wish that they should never meet again, for, having accomplished her errand, she had flown from the possibility of his thanks.

It was so clear, now! He perceived it all, plainly. Somehow (though it was hard to surmise how) she had found out that Anisty had stolen the jewels; somehow (and one wondered at what risk) she had contrived to take them from him and bring them back to their owner. And Anisty had followed.

Poor little woman! What had she not suffered, what perils had she not braved, to prove that there was honor even in thieves! It could have been at no inconsiderable danger—a danger not incommensurate with that of robbing a tigress of her whelps—that she had managed to filch his loot from that pertinacious and vindictive soul, Anisty!

But she had accomplished it; and all for him!

If only he could find her, now!

There was a clew to his hand in that bag, of course, but by this act she forever removed from him the right to investigate that.

If he could only find that cabby.

Perhaps if he tried at the Madison square rank, immediately—

Besides, it was clearly his duty not to remain in the flat alone with the jewels another night. There was but one attainable place of safety for them, and that the safe of a reputable hotel. He would return to the Bartholdi at once, merely pausing on his way to inquire of the cabmen if they could send their brother-nighthawk to him.

Maitland shook himself into his top-coat, jammed hat upon head, dropped the jewels into one pocket, the cigarette case into another, and—on impulse—Anisty's revolver, with its two unexploded cartridges, into a third, and pressed the call button for O'Hagan, not waiting, however, for that worthy to climb the stair, but meeting him in the entry hall.

Maitland Woke Up. "What's That?" He Questioned Sharply.

"I'm going back to the Bartholdi, O'Hagan, for the night. You may bring me my letters and any messages in the morning. I should like you to sleep in the flat to-night and answer any telephone calls."

"Yiss, Misther Maitland, sor."

"Have the police gone, O'Hagan?"

"There's a whole bottle full yet, sor."

"You've not been drinking, I trust?"

The Irishman shuffled. "Shure, sor, an' wud that be hosphitible?"

Laughing, Maitland bade him good night and left the house, turning west to gain Fifth avenue, walking slowly because he was a little tired, and enjoying the rather unusual experience of being abroad at that hour without company. The sky seemed cleaner than ordinarily, the city quieter than ever he had known it, and in the air was a sweet smell, reminiscent of the country-side—reminding one unhappily of the previous night when one had gone whistling to one's destiny along a perfumed country road.

"Good 'eavings, Mister Maitland, sir! It carn't be you!"

Maitland looked up, bewildered for the instant. The voice that hailed him out of the sky was not unfamiliar.

A cab that he had waited on the corner to let pass, was reined back suddenly. The driver leaned down from the box and in a thunderstruck tone advertised his stupefaction.

"It aren't in nature, sir—if yer'll pardon my mentionin' it. But 'ere I leaves you not ten minutes ago at the St. Luke building and finds yer 'ere, when you 'aven't 'ad time—"

Maitland woke up. "What's that?" he questioned, sharply. "You left me where ten minutes—?"

"St. Luke buildin', corner Broadway an'—"

"I know it," excited, "but—"

"—'avin' took yer there with the young lady—"

"Young lady!"

"—that comes outer the 'ouse with yer, sir—"

"The devil!" Maitland hesitated no longer; his foot was on the step as he spoke. "Drive me there at once, and drive for all you're worth!" he cried. "If there's an ounce of speed in that plug of yours and you don't get it out—"

"Never fear, sir! We'll make it in five minutes!"

"It'll be worth your while."

"Right-O!"

Maitland dropped into his seat, dumfounded. "Good Lord!" he whispered; and then, savagely: "In the power of that infamous scoundrel—!" And felt of the revolver in his pocket.

The cab had been headed north; the St. Luke rears its massive bulk south of Twenty-second street. The driver expertly swung his vehicle almost on dead center. Simultaneously it careened with the impact of a heavy bulk landing upon the step and falling in a heap on the deck.

"My worrd, what's that?" came from aloft. Maitland was altogether too startled to speak.

The heap sat up, resolving itself into the semblance of a man; who spoke in decisive tones:

"If yeh're goin' there, I'm goin' with yeh, 'r yeh don't go—see?"

"The sleuth!" gasped Maitland, astounded.

"Ah, cut that, can't yeh?" Hickey got on all fours, found his cigar, stuck it in his mouth, and fell into place at Maitland's side.

"Hickey, I mean. But how—"

"If yeh're Maitland, 'nd Anisty's at the St. Luke buildin', tell that fool up there to drive!"

Maitland had no need to lift the trap; the cabby had already done that.

"All right," the young man called. "It's Detective Hickey. Drive on!"

The lash leaped out over the roof—cr-rack!—and the horse, presumably convinced that no speed other than a dead-run would ever again be demanded of it, tore frantically down the avenue, the hansom rocking like a top-sail-schooner in a heavy gale.

Maitland and the detective were battered against the side and back of the vehicle and slammed against one another with painful regularity. Under such circumstances speech was difficult; yet they managed to exchange a few sentences.

"Yeh gottuh gun?"

"Anisty's—two good cartridges."

"Jus' as well I'm along, I guess."

And again: "How'd yeh s'pose Anisty got this cab?"

"I don't know—must 've been in the house—I told cabby to wait—Anisty seems to have walked out right on your heels."

"Hell!" And a moment later: "What's this about a woman in the case?"

Maitland took swift thought on her behalf.

"Too long to go into now," he parried the query. "You help me catch this scoundrel Anisty and I'll put in a good word for you with the deputy commissioner."

"Ah, yeh help me nab him," grunted the detective, "'nd I won't need no good word with nobody."

The hansom swung into Broadway, going like a whirlwind; and picked up an uniformed officer in front of the Flatiron building, who, shouting and using his locust stridently, sprinted after them. A block further down another fell into line; and he it was who panted at the step an instant after the cab had lurched to a stop before the entrance to the St. Luke building.

Hickey had rolled out before the policeman had a chance to bluster.

"'Lo, Bergen," he greeted the man. "Yeh know me—I'm Hickey, central office. Yeh're jus' in time. Anisty's in this buildin'—'r was ten minutes ago. We want all the help we c'n get."

By way of reply the officer stooped and drummed a loud alarm on the sidewalk with his night-stick.

"Say," he panted, rising, "you're a wonder, Hickey—if you get him."

"Uh-huh," grunted the detective with a sidelong glance at Maitland. "C'm 'long."

The lobby of the building was quite deserted as they entered, the night-watchman invisible, the night elevator on its way to the roof—as was discovered by consultation of the indicator dial above the gate. Hickey punched the night call bell savagely.

"Me 'nd him," he said, jerking the free thumb at Maitland, "'ll go up and hunt him out. Begin at th' top floor an' work down. That's th' way, huh? 'Nd," to the policeman, "yeh stay here an' hold up anybody 't tries tuh leave th' buildin'. There ain't no other entrance, I s'pose, what?"

"Basement door an' ash lift's round th' corner," responded the officer. "But that had ought tuh be locked, night."

"Well, 'f anybody else comes along yeh put him there, anyway, for luck. What 'n hell's th' matter with this elevator?"

The detective settled a pudgy index-finger on the push button and elicited a far, thin, shrill peal from the annunciator above. But the indicator arrow remained as motionless as the car at the top of the shaft. Another summons gained no response, in likewise, and a third was also disregarded.

Hickey stepped back, face black as a storm-cloud, summed up his opinion of the management of the building in one soul-blistering phrase, produced his bandana and used it vigorously, uttered a libel on the ancestry of the night-watchman and the likes of him, and turned to give profane welcome to the policeman who had noticed the cab at Twenty-third street and who now panted in, blown and perspiring. Much to his disgust he found himself assigned to stand guard over the basement exits, and waddled forth again into the street.

Meanwhile the first officer to arrive upon the scene was taking his turn at agitating the button and shaking the gates; and with no more profit of his undertaking than Hickey. After a minute or two of it he acknowledged defeat with an oath, and turned away to browbeat the straggling vanguard of belated wayfarers—messenger boys, slatternly drabs, hackmen, loafers, and one or two plain citizens conspicuously out of their reputable grooves—who were drifting in at the entrance to line the lobby walls with blank, curious faces. Forerunners of that mysterious rabble which is apparently precipitated out of the very air by any extraordinary happening in city streets, if allowed to remain they would in five minutes have waxed in numbers to the proportions of an unmanageable mob; and the policeman, knowing this, set about dispersing them with perhaps greater discretion than consideration.

COL. "DICK" TAYLOR DEAD

PASSED AWAY AT HIS HOME IN SMITHTON SUNDAY AT 6:50 O'CLOCK P. M.

WAS NATIVE OF BLUE GRASS STATE

Resided in Pettis County for Fifty Years—Funeral Services at Smithton by Rev. Sterling Monday Afternoon.

(From Monday's Daily.)

Col. Richard Taylor, one of Pettis county's best known and most respected citizens, died of Bright's disease and dropsy at his home in Smithton at 6:55 o'clock Sunday evening, following a ten months' illness, a good portion of which he was bedfast.

Rev. Sterling conducted funeral services at the family residence at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon, and interment was made in the Smithton cemetery.

Col. Taylor was a native of Kentucky and throughout his life displayed those characteristic traits conspicuous in every native-born resident of the Blue Grass state.

On Oct. 15, 1841, Col. Taylor was born at Centerville, Bourbon county. His father was F. B. Taylor, for two terms a member of the Pettis county court.

In the fall of 1858, Col. Taylor came to Pettis county, accompanied by his parents, and engaged in stock buying and shipping. He attained success from the beginning, and later conducted a general merchandise business in partnership with Frank Wright and J. C. Williams, and later was associated with Harry Sneed in a similar pursuit.

During the years 1895-7 he formed a part of the ownership of the Smithton Packing Co., while between the years 1893-7 he ably filled the position of postmaster at Smithton.

In early life Col. Taylor affiliated with the Christian church, remaining steadfast to that faith up to the time of his death.

He was twice married. His first wife was Miss Tucker, of Kentucky, who died several years after her marriage; also one child born of the union.

Col. Taylor's second wife was Miss Fannie P. Smith, who survives him, as do two brothers, H. H. and Frank Taylor, of this city, and one sister, Mrs. Sue Martin, of Otterville.

BOARDED THE WRONG TRAIN

Katy Passengers Who Came to the State Fair.

Quite a number of Leeton people failed to catch the excursion train out of Sedalia Thursday night, says the Leeton Times. They were not as much "put out," however, as were a big crowd of state fair visitors living west of here on the High line.

About seventy-five of them, instead of taking the High line train, boarded a main line passenger and were carried to Windsor before making the discovery that they were on the wrong train.

From there they made their way to their homes in many different ways, but all were forced to spend the balance of the night in Windsor.

ATTEMPT TO KILL PRIEST

TWO HUNDRED CHICAGO SUNDAY SCHOOL CHILDREN SEE SHOOTING.

THE WOULD-BE ASSASSIN ESCAPES

Wounded Divine Knocks Assailant From Church Vestibule—Probably Member of Anticlerical Society.

Chicago, Ill., Oct. 19.—A desperate attempt to assassinate Rev. Father J. K. Fienling, president of the Gaelic Athletic association and one of the most prominent Roman Catholic divines in the city, was made in the vestibule of Corpus Christi church Sunday afternoon by a man believed to be a member of an anticlerical society.

Two hundred Sunday school children, horror-stricken, watched the frenzied attack, the would-be assassin firing two shots at the priest.

Screams of terror by the boys and girls attracted hundreds of passers-by to the church, and in the general confusion the priest's assailant escaped.

It was only through the bravery of Father Fielding, who, with his bare fists, knocked the assailant out of the vestibule of the church, that a tragedy somewhat similar to that in Denver, six months ago, when Rev. Father Leo Henrichs was shot down at the altar at St. Mary's church, was averted.

For hours the stranger awaited an opportunity to murder his victim. He attended every mass at Corpus Christi church and is believed to have feared to attack the priest owing to the presence of the police who guard all Catholic services.

MR. O'BANNON VERY ILL

He Is the Father of Edward O'Bannon, of Sedalia.

(From Monday's Daily.)

B. F. O'Bannon, one of Pettis county's oldest residents, has been bedfast with diabetes at his home, twelve miles west of Sedalia, for five weeks, under the care of Dr. Clabaugh, of Green Ridge, and little change is noticed in his condition. His recovery is in doubt.

Mr. O'Bannon is 82 years of age, and has resided on the farm where he now lives for fifty-five years. A son, Edward O'Bannon, is employed as agent for the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. in this city.

Death of Ben Krensel.

Mrs. Peter Brandt has been informed of the death of Benjamin Krensel, an uncle by marriage, at his home near Florence, Morgan county, Sunday, of general debility, aged 92 years. The deceased leaves three children. The funeral services will be conducted at Florence at 10 o'clock Tuesday forenoon.

THE ELECTION IN DOUBT

EITHER OF THE TWO DOMINANT PARTIES HAS CHANCE FOR VICTORY.

A HARD FIGHT THE CLOSING DAYS

The Candidate Who Carries New York State and Secures Its 39 Electoral Voaes Likely to Succeed Mr Roosevelt.

The St. Louis Post-Dispatch on Sunday morning presented the first general canvass of political conditions as they exist in the twenty-three so-called pivotal states, seventeen days before the election. It is plainly shown that the result is in doubt, notwithstanding the claims made by the leaders of both parties. Of the doubtful states, of which New York is the most important, Mr Taft must carry New York to win by a margin of two votes. If he does so his election is assured.

Mr. Bryan to win needs to carry New York, Ohio and Maryland, or Nebraska, or West Virginia, which will give him 248, or six votes more than is necessary to his election. If he carries New York, Indiana, West Virginia and Nebraska or Maryland, yet loses Ohio, he may still be elected by six votes in the electoral college. Of the states suggested by the poll of the Post-Dispatch as doubtful, Mr. Bryan, under any combination of figures, must carry New York to be successful.

The results of the canvass reflect the earnest and impartial efforts of the leading newspapers in the states of Maryland, West Virginia, Ohio, Indiana, Wisconsin, Minnesota, North Dakota, Iowa, Kansas, Nebraska, Wyoming, Montana, Colorado, Utah, Idaho, Washington, Nevada and California, and of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch in Missouri and the New York World, through its correspondents in New York, New Jersey and Connecticut.

These conditions may change during the rest of the campaign and materially affect the indicated result, but the Post-Dispatch feels entirely justified in presenting the estimate given this morning as portraying the exact situation at this time.

In compiling the accompanying table showing the probable distribution of the 443 electoral votes, the Post-Dispatch has placed in the doubtful column several states which may ordinarily be credited to one candidate or the other. It has done so for many and varied reasons, justified by the uncertainty regarding elements that appear to be undergoing readjustment, and the final classification which can not now with absolute accuracy be determined.

It is this element of uncertainty that impels the Post-Dispatch to accept the conclusion that the result of the contest for the presidency is in doubt, due to the important causes that may be set forth as follows:

1. The injection into the campaign for the presidency in some of the western states of an insidious and disturbing religious factor, which is working against the interests of the republican candidate.

2. The tendency of the labor vote to break away from the control of all parties, as illustrated in the surprising spread of the socalist cause, both in the east and west.

3. The failure of both the republican and democratic parties to intelligently approximate the distribution of the vote to be cast by an army of unemployed — estimated in round numbers at 1,400,000 voters.

4. The failure of both the republican and democratic managers to anticipate the distribution of the colored vote in states where it has always been classified as republican.

5. The complete absence of anything suggesting an issue of general value or vote-getting potency to either side.

Regarding the situation in Missouri, the Post-Dispatch has the following:

In 1904 Missouri gave Roosevelt a plurality of 25,137. This year, according to the best evidence of party leaders and correspondents of the Post-Dispatch, Missouri will give Bryan a plurality of not less than 35,000.

The difference in the estimated vote this year and four years ago is 60,000. Four years ago the republican vote in Missouri was 321,000 and the democratic vote 296,000. These figures showed a democratic decline of 83,000 and a republican gain of 2,000 over 1900, when Bryan carried the state by 38,000. In 1896 Bryan's plurality was 59,000, and the republican vote then slightly exceeded 300,000.

The forecast of democratic victory this year is based on these propositions:

1. In St. Louis, Kansas City and St. Joseph and other cities of the state, business men, attorneys and financiers who deserted Bryan in 1896 and who remained firmly against him in 1900, are now on record in favor of his election. Probably not one out of fifteen of the old "sound money" democrats is supporting the republican nominee for the presidency. From this source the democratic party counts an increase of 15,000 votes at the November election.

2. Undoubtedly the stay-at-home cost the democratic party Missouri four years ago. This year the concentration of all democratic factions on Mr. Bryan, supplemented by the contes between Governor Folk and Senator Stone for the democratic nomination for United States senator, gives promise that the normal democratic vote will be polled. The senatorial fight has a peculiar bearing on the presidential contest because of the fact that in order to vote for either of the democratic candidates for senator the democratic ticket must be voted.

3. Republicans concede that Governor Folk's administration has strengthened the democratic party in Missouri. Evidence of the republican weakness lies in the fact that the attorney general, Hadley, the republican candidate for governor, has confined his attacks to previous democratic administrations.

4. Seventy-five per cent of the trade union vote of the state will be cast for Bryan, according to labor leaders. The total vote, counting all trade unions, probably amounts to 100,000. Heretofore, political leaders say Bryan has got about 60 per cent of this vote.

5. No democratic defection is reported from the country districts, so far as the national democratic ticket is concerned.

Bets of three to one that Bryan will carry Missouri find no takers.

Sentinmetn is faint for Debs and Hisgen in Missouri. Likewise, the populist and prohibition parties are weak. The populist ticket is not likely to poll more than 10,000 votes; the socialist ticket about 15,000 and the independence ticket less than 10,000.

The minor parties will draw almost equally from the republican and the democratic nominees for the presidency.

Hon. Ed T. Orear and wife, of this city, were among those who accompanied Hon. William J. Bryan on his whirlwind trip across the state last week.

The series of meetings in progress at the Baptist church during the last three weeks terminated Wednesday evening, with a baptismal service, in charge of the pastor, Rev. Setzer. Thirteen members were taken into the church as a result of the meetings, which were conducted by State Evangelist Taylor, of Liberty.

A well deserved compliment was paid a Sweet Springs girl in the selection of Miss Bonna Miller, a student in Morrisville college, as a delegate to the Y. W. C. A., which will meet in Springfield Oct. 29. In addition to her regular school work, Miss Miller is assistant teacher of Latin, and a general favorite with the faculty and pupils.

A number of Sweet Springs people attended the Concordia street fair on Thursday, Friday and Saturday. This is an annual affair, and s always well attended and well managed.

A nutting party, composed of E. L. Spurgeon and wife, T. H. Nelson and wife, Marvin Davis and wife, Mrs. William Binkley, Misses Elizabeth Goggin and Mattie Hall, went to Rocky Ford, north of town, Wednesday, and spent a delightful day.

The trustees of the Baptist church had a business meeting Wednesday evening at the conclusion of the regular services and elected delegates to the general association to be held in Moberly next week. Mrs. S. H. Carter and J. H. McGuire and wife were elected to represent the church.

Mrs. Marvin Davis will be hostess to the Priscilla club Wednesday afternoon of next week, complimentary to Miss Mary T. Berry and the ladies of her wedding party. Both Mrs. Davis and her guests of honor are leaders of Sweet Springs society, and a very enjoyable afternoon is in store for their friends.

JAMES F. BALL EXPLAINS

SPEECH FOR MR. HADLEY DUE TO TOO MUCH "ENTHUSIASM," HE DECLARES.

WRITES A CARD IN EXPLANATION

Mr. H. C. Turner, Correspondent Who Sent Out "Support Hadley" Story, Should Have Been More Considerate of Mr. Ball.

The St. Louis Globe-Democrat of Monday, the 19th, printed the following self-explanatory card, dated Montgomery City, Mo., the 18th:

My attention was called to an article in the Globe-Democrat of today, in which it was stated that I made a speech here to a large crowd last night, saying that I intended to support Mr. Hadley. I knew nothing of the statement until many of my personal friends, both republicans and democrats, told me this morning what had happened yesterday.

The truth is, yesterday was the last day of our street fair, and I was so full of "enthusiasm" as not to be responsible for what was said by me. I no doubt said what was attributed to me by the reporter, for all my friends say so, but all who saw me know the circumstances.

Mr. Hadley was here some time ago, and I called on him and told him I could not vote for him; that I was going to vote for William S. Cowherd for governor. This is Sunday and I am strictly sober.

I do not want to deceive any man, either democrat or republican, for I am going to vote the democratic ticket from top to bottom, including W. S. Cowherd for governor, and am doing all in my power and have acting in conjunction with the democratic county committee to elect every man on the national, state and county ticket. I am also one of the largest contributors in this county to the democratic campaign fund.

The Globe-Democrat's correspondent here, Mr. H. C. Turner, certainly knew all the circumstances, and if he had wanted to treat me fairly he would not have humiliated me in this manner. I ask that this be published in defense of both republican and democratic friends. Yours very respectfully.—James F. Ball.

GOV. J. W. FOLK'S ADDRESS

A SPLENDID AUDIENCE GREETED HIM AT OPERA HOUSE LAST NIGHT.

MANY LADIES WERE IN ATTENDANCE

Was Introduced by Mr. Lee Montgomery, and Delivered an Address That Was Punctured by Liberal Applause.

(From Wednesday's Daily.)

The largest and most enthusiastic audience which has gathered in Sedalia during the present political campaign greeted Governor J. W. Folk at Wood's opera house last night. Every seat, up stairs and down, was filled and every inch of standing room was occupied. There were many ladies among those present.

The audience, which gathered early, was a patient one, too, and endured the long wait, caused by the lateness of the train from Clinton, on which the governor came, with great good nature.

It was quite a little after 8 o'clock when Gov. Folk appeared upon the stage, together with a score of prominent democrats of the city.

Mr. Lee Montgomery presided and in a few eloquent words introduced the speaker as the "only man now living in Missouri with national fame."

The governor was given an ovation lasting several minutes, the whole audience, it would seem, joining in the demonstration.

His address was a very strong and patriotic one, and was at the same time thoroughly and convincingly democratic. He announced his faith in both the national and state tickets and reviewed the platforms of the party, giving reasons why both should receive the unqualified support of the masses of the people. He dwelt especially on the anti-injunction plank of the platform, together with those relating to the guarantee of bank deposits, election of United States senators by the people, the reform of the speaker's rule of the house of representatives and the tariff.

Referring to his candidacy for United States senator, he reviewed his career as circuit attorney of St. Louis and governor of Missouri, and told of those reforms that he advocated and had been largely instrumental in bringing about.

He cited his successful war on race track gamblers, his forcing the saloons of St. Louis, Kansas City and St. Joseph to obey the Sunday and early closing laws, and challenged any man to show that the police departments of those cities were not compelling the strictest observance of the dramshop regulations. "As governor of the state," said he, "I offer a reward of $300 each for evidence that violations of these regulations in these cities are permitted by the police departments. Now, if any of my opponents believe that I am not enforcing the law, as they say, here is a chance for them to get rich."

To show how much work there is to be done in the senate by anyone who cares for work, Mr Folk told of the recent findings concerning Senator Depew, Senator Platt, Senator Mitchell, Senator Foraker and Senator Burton.

"Wherever you find a gambler or a bootlegger or a Sunday saloon law violator you find a redhot anti-Folk man," said he. "I leave you to guess the reason."

Speaking of his reasons for becoming a candidate for the position he seeks, he said it was a place of great honor which no man could refuse, but in addition to that, he said his election would mean that the people indorsed his fight for public virtue and that it would mark a new path for men seeking high position, and would tell them that standing for the better things was not dangerous, but on the other hand, was bound to bring success to those who advocated them.

"I want to represent you right," exclaimed the speaker, "and if I can not do that I would resign my seat."

At the close of his speech the governor made a curt reply to the charge that he was in political alliance with Herbert S. Hadley.

"Those who say I have made such an alliance," he said, "are attacking and injuring the democratic state ticket. They are party traitors, and in hurting the party are making the ticket run a risk of losing the state. But political pirates probably would not care if they did."

Governor Folk could not fail but to have been gratified at his reception in Sedalia, and his friends and supporters were jubilant over both his address and the large audience that listened to and applauded it.

Governor Folk spoke to a large audience at Otterville this forenoon.

THIS IS THE NEWS THAT COMES TO MR. O. P. WILCOX FROM ASHLAND, MO.

(From Wednesday's Daily.)

O. P. Wilcox talked with his brother, J. L. Wilcox, editor of the Ashland, Mo., Bugle, last night over the telephone and learned that immediate steps would be taken to rebuild the business section of Ashland, which, with the exception of two buildings, was wiped out by fire Sunday night.

Editor Wilcox is publishing his paper at Columbia until his new equipment, which has been ordered, arrives. He will not miss an issue, but will go along just as if there had been no fire, except for the inconvenience of publishing his paper fifteen miles from home.

Rev. Johnson, who built and has been a very close friend to Ashland, has arranged to reopen the bank immediately, having secured money from St. Louis, which was delivered Tuesday.

The Ashland bank was totally destroyed and it will not be known whether the papers and the money in the vault is secure until the debris cools sufficiently to permit of examination.

LENA GOT OFF LIGHTLY

(From Wednesday's Daily.)

Lena Vogle, a young girl of questionable character, was arrested by the police last night on the charge of being a prostitute and drunkenness.

At the time she, with a number of young men, several of whom have had involuntary dealings with the police, was occupying the loft of the barn in the rear of the Elite Tailoring company, and, according to the "sleuths," was "carrying on scandalously." Judge Gresham today fined the woman $10, which she agreed to pay.

A warrant was later issued for the arrest of the young men who were in her company at the time and who escaped when the police raided the resort.

DR. GRAHAM IS VERY ILL

His Two Brothers Have Been Summoned to Excelsior Springs.

Information from Excelsior Springs is to the effect that Dr. W. N. Graham, former business manager of the old Sedalia Democrat, is quite ill. He is suffering from a huge carbuncle on the back of his neck, and also from diabetes. He is greatly discouraged, and fears he will not recover, although the attending physician tells him to the contrary.

His brothers, John and Wesley Graham, have been summoned, and are expected to reach Excelsior Springs today, the former from Chicago and the latter from Rolla.

A legion of friends in Sedalia and Pettis county trust that the illness is not as serious as Dr. Graham fears, and that he will soon be restored to good health.

PHOTOGRAPH OF A NEGRO

AN EPXLANATION BY THE TEACHER

Hillsboro, Texas, Oct. 21.—In connection with the action of the Hillsboro school board in passing a motion to dispense with the services of Miss Grace Ballantine, teacher of music and drawing in the public schools, because she had, with other members of the graduating class at Battle Creek (Michigan) High school, exchanged photos with a young negro who graduated in the same class, Miss Ballantine says:

"The class of which I was a member twenty years ago as a girl of 16 contained eleven members, eight white girls, two white and one negro boy.

"It had been the custom for years, and still is the custom in that school for all members of graduating classes to exchange pictures.

"We had not thought of exchanging with the negro, but, at the close of the school, the negro brought us his picture, and we, as a class, felt that we could not do anything less than give him ours. We only did so to keep from hurting his feelings.

"The statement above, which I made at my boarding house, was made because I had been charged with being too hard on the negroes in the south.

"I replied that I had always treated them justly, and gave the above incident as an example. The principal and superintendent also exchanged their pictures with all members of the class.

"All persons who were present when the above remarks were made will verify this statement as to my remarks."

Miss Ballantine further states:

"There were no social relations between any of the white members of the class and the negro, and I had never spoken to him before that time or since."

WITNESS TO CLEAR MANN

NEW CHAPTER IN SENSATIONAL CASE

Charles McCormick Clawater Says That He and Not Luman C. Mann Went With Florence Thompson to Rooming House.

Chicago, Oct. 21.—A new witness in the Florence Thompson murder case has been discovered by whose testimony Mann's attorney is said to expect to prove that Luman C. Mann was not the woman's slayer.

This latest witness to enter the case is Charles McCormick Clawater, who, it is said, was employed until recently on a Milwaukee newspaper. He made a statement saying it was he who accompanied Mrs. Thompson to the Michigan avenue rooming house in which she was murdered.

It was Mrs. Thompson, declares Clawater, who suggested that he register under the name of J. H. Raymond."

Clawater was taken to the house at 1242 Michigan avenue and he readily pointed it out as the one which he and Mrs. Thompson entered on June 27.

He said he knows nothing of the murder, but will be a witness for Mann, who is now under indictment, charged with the crime.

Clawater was taken to a hotel, where he will be kept until Inspector Wheeler can question him.

Clawater is about 30 years old. He says he did not learn of the murder of Mrs. Thompson until after Mann's arrest.

BOMB NUMBER 21 EXPLODES

Third Explosion for Rogers' Saloon in "Gamblers' War."

Chicago, Oct. 21.—Bomb No. 21 in the "gamblers' war" and bomb No. 3 at John A. Rogers' saloon, 343 West Madison street, was exploded Monday night and wrecked the windows in the rear of the building.

The explosion followed close upon that of Saturday night at James O'Leary's place, Forty-first and Halsted streets, and was just as mysterious.

The bomb tore a hole in the roof of a shed in the rear of the saloon and three windows were shattered. Otherwise no damage was done. It is denied that gambling is permitted in the place.

CHICAGO MAN BEATEN AND ROBBED WHILE THE CROWD LOOKED ON.

THIEVES ESCAPED WITH SATCHEL

H. P. Stevenson Was Carrying the Sum Stated to the Bank When Two Highwaymen Attacked Him, With Result Stated.

Chicago, Oct. 21.—A daring daylight robbery occurred at Halstead street and Washington avenue yesterday, when H. P. Stevenson was beaten into insensibility by two highwaymen, who then escaped with a satchel in which Stevenson was carrying $2,000 to the bank.

A large crowd was attracted by the struggle, but the assault and robbery was perpetrated so quickly that the robbers had a good start when the pursuit began.

A BOLD BAD BURGLAR

Believed to Have Been Arrested Here By Police.

(From Wednesday's Daily.)

John Johnson, whose home is wherever his head is uncovered, was arrested by Assistant Chief of Police James Card on West Main street at 6:30 o'clock this morning on suspicion of having been implicated in the robbery of R. H. Nelson's store at Green Ridge on Oct. 10.

He was taken to police headquarters, where he was sweated and information gained that will lead to his conviction.

A suit case, containing two bolts of silk, two pairs of shoes and other articles, which were missed from Mr. Nelson's store, was found in Johnson's custody.

Later another suit case belonging to the prisoner was found secreted in the grass near the state fair grounds. Johnson was given a preliminary examination before Judge Clark and was held to the criminal court in the sum of $500.

A reward of $50 was paid for the arrest of the man.

ESCAPED UNDER FIRE

Man Reported Killed By Night Riders Shows Up All Right.

Nashville, Tenn., Oct. 21.—The Banner correspondent at Union City telegraphed today that Colonel R. Z. Taylor, who it was supposed was shot by night riders, has reached Tiptonville uninjured.

Union City, Tenn., Oct. 21.—Col. Taylor escaped from the night riders an hour after Capt. Rankin was hanged. While the riders disputed over his fate he leaped in the bayou, swam across under fire and reached Tiptonville this morning.

The militia under the personal direction of Governor Patterson is being distributed throughout the disturbed territory.

Stenographer Resigned in Pittsburg, Pa., and Her Employer Said He Made Reparation In Death.

Pittsburg, Pa., Oct. 21.—As reparation for an insult to Miss Florence Warman, his stenographer, Jerome Compton Counsell a private detective, formerly of St. Louis, shot and killed himself while talking to Miss Warman over the telephone Monday night.

He pleaded incoherently for her to forgive him, but before she could reply he said: "I am sorry I spoke to you as I did and I am going to pay for it now. Listen."

Miss Warman heard two shots and ran screaming from the telephone. She notified the manager of the detective agency and Counsell was found dead on a desk in the office, his body bent over the telephone transmitter. The revolver was in his hand.

Counsell who was 28 years old, came to Pittsburg from St. Louis, about a year ago, with his wife and family, to whom he seemed devoted. He obtained employment with the Keystone Detective agency and was considered one of their best operatives.

Miss Warman was employed by Counsell as a stenographer. Remarks he made to her Monday caused her to resign.

Counsell called her on the telephone at her home Monday night to apologize. He had been talking to her only a few moments when he shot himself.

Counsell's wife is an invalid.

MONOPOLY IN GOVERNMENT.

That clause of the democratic platform dealing with the evils of private monopoly and the methods that may be adopted for remedying such evils has been fully discussed and championed in a speech delievered by Mr. Bryan. It involves not so much a question of principle as one of procedure.

The failure of the federal government for eighteen years to enforce the federal laws already on the statute books providing fines and imprisonment for conspiracies in restraint of trade, taken together, seems to sufficiently indicate the proper first steps toward repression and reform.

The democratic party proposes a rigid enforcement of the anti-trust laws and such changes in the tariff schedules as will do away with the favoritism which constitutes the foundation upon which the trusts are built. These correctives failing, the platform of the party points the way to further expedients of reform.

The republican party occupies the equivocal position of first authorizing a system of protective tariff legislation which is intended to build up monopolies and afterward enacting statutes (which it does not enforce) for the prevention of monopolies.

There may be dispute as to the propriety of efficiency of the means proposed in the democratic platform for the extirpation of the trusts should these monopolies prove able to maintain themselves in spite of due enforcement and in spite of a knocking away of the props upon which they stand.

Such dispute, however, is of no immediate consequence. Until we get a congress that will reform the tariff and an executive that will enforce existent laws for the repression of monopolies, there is no hope for the passage of further remedial legislation.

The trusts have control of the republican party and the republican party has control of the government. Until the people turn the republican party out of power the rule of monopoly will continue. The cry of "democracy against plutocracy" is really a summing up of the issues.

BRYAN ON TRUSTS.

The logic of the proposition, "The people shall rule" is wholly with Mr Bryan. The republican leaders argue that there is no salvation for the nation except in the republican party. Mr. Taft himself is not averse to this opinion, and adds to it the plausible suggestion that the democratic party has had no experience in managing the affairs of the nation, and that under the rule of William Jennings Bryan various disasters are liable to happen.

It is a dangerous political argument to contend that good government rests only with one certain party and that bad government is a synonym for another certain party. It is practically a confession of what Mr. Bryan charges against the republican party, that it is the party of special privileges and monopolies, inasmuch as its claims the exclusive monopoly of government. If not, from what is the nation to be saved? What policy, asks the Chicago Dispatch, brought it to the point where salvation is necessary?

An adaptation of this principle to our system of government would lead to an oligarchy, which is but the stepping stone to an imperial form of government, under which the people are not trusted with the management of their own affairs. The issue is squarely presented to the people and it is doubtful whether they will cast their votes for any party that refuses to place confidence in their common sense and seeks their votes only for the express purpoe of retaining possession of the government of the nation.

It is the Standard Oil argument that it should be allowed to continue its monopoly because oil is now cheaper than it was forty years ago. It is a bold stand to take on the part of the republicans and Mr. Bryan has seized upon it with a clear sightedness that must make it apparent to the American people that there is no safety in the g. o. p., but on the contrary, danger to the public welfare.

There are thousands of men in our workshops, behind counters and in the professions equally as competent to govern the nation successfully as any of the men now governing for the benefit of the monopolies. To say that a select few are the only ones competent, is to insult the nation

A SAMPLE TRUST.

Inquiry has been made as to the character and extent of the wool trust and its advantages from the tariff. The facts are of general interest having some relation to the present national campaign, the leading issue in which is the tariff.

The American Woolen Co. is a consolidation of nearly thirty concerns manufacturing woolen and worsted goods. Therefore, it is a trust, not in the strictly legal sense of the term, but in its colloquial sense, and sustains much the same relation to the woolen industry that the United States Steel corporation does to the iron and steel trade, or the International Paper Co. to the print paper trades, or the rubber trust and the leather trust to their respective trades, or the American Sugar Refining Co. and the Standard Oil Co. to their respective lines.

The phrase "woolen trust" is sometimes used in a little wider sense. Forty-one years ago the duties on wool and woolens were arranged by a conference of representatives if growers and manufacturers; of course, the consumers were not represented, and no attention was paid to the government interests in a revenue.

The manufacturers agreed that the growers should have all the duty they wanted in consideration of the support of the growers for the demand of the manufacturers for duties sufficient to off set all the duties on the raw wool, and as much more as the manufacturers felt that they needed in their business.

In later republican tariffs the terms of this combine between the wool growers and the manufacturers have been pretty faithfully observed, although according to protectionists themselves, wool growing is fast going out in all the settled states and is now almost entirely a ranch industry. Not only in an old state like Massachusetts is it complained that the farmers won't raise sheep, but within a few weeks Mr. Colburn, of the Kansas board of agriculture, has bewailed the fact that in his state there are fifteen times as many dogs as there are sheep.

The combine of the wool growers—then mostly Ohio men—and the woolen manufacturers is sometimes spoken of as the woolen trust, but the more common use of the phrase refers to the combination of woolen manufacturers, which was formed in 1899, and which, when offering its shares to the public, assured buyers that they need not fear to buy lest the democrats should get control of the government, because the combination would make about as much without the tariff as with it. Of course, this referred to the great advantage it would be to the manufacturers to have the duty taken off of wool.

SEDALIA DID HERSELF PROUD.

The statement published Sunday of the receipts and disbursements of the Business Men's club served to again call attention to the fact that Sedalia can and does care for its state fair visitors with a hospitality that leaves nothing to be desired.

Although this year the crowds each day were far in excess of any heretofore attending, every person was provided with accommodations that could not but have met the desires of ever the most fastidious. There were numerous eating places, where bountiful meals were provided at reasonable cost and the homes of the city were so generously opened that no one had to go without comfortable sleeping rooms at prices within the reach of all.

The Business Men's club cared for the necessary details and so handled matters that there was no congestion, and all arrangements worked smoothly and evenly, causing no discomfort or anxiety to any visitor within the city's gates.

When it is considered that in addition to this, the organization also raised $995.50 for the amusement and comfort of the people, and saw to it that seats, ice water, fireworks and music was provided, speaks eloquently of the value of that institution, as well as demonstrating the liberality and public spirit of Sedalia's business men.

Of the sum raised, $365.24 remains on hand as a nucleus for next year's fair, when, undoubtedly, still more people will attend than did this, and all will be just as carefully looked after.

As Secretary Stinson said, "Invite the whole world to come; Sedalia will provide for them, no matter how many accept the invitation."

"WHAT IS JOE CANNON?"

Rev. Dr. J. K. Shields, superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League of Illinois, in a speech before the Rock River M. E. conference on Wednesday said: "What Is Joe Cannon? Just a few days ago I met a young lawyer whom he had sent down into the state to talk temperance. He told me that he had met 'Uncle Joe' in a car and had ridden with him for quite a while, and when I asked him for the impression that Uncle Joe had made, he said:

"Shields, I have heard vileness from the mouths of many men, but the profanity that streamed from the lips of Joe Cannon I never heard equaled.'" —St. Louis Christian Advocate.

KEEP BOTH GOING.

A store's advertisements, says the Buffalo News, tell the people what is "doing" at that store—what is new, what is inviting, why today is a good time to visit that store. People look at the ads to tell them these things just as naturally as they look at the clock to tell them the time.

Sometimes a clock does not run—sometimes a store ad does not. A "run down" clock or ad are about equally unsatisfactory, unserviceable, misleading.

Curious thing about it is that a merchant who would think it absurd to have a "run down" or out-or-repair clock, will, sometimes, deliberately let his ad stop running. It's not wise, nor "good business," nor defensible on any known grounds, but it's sometimes done.

REPUBLICAN INCONSISTENCY.

It is now the stand pat claim that the tariff should guarantee "reasonable profits" to protected manufacturers. yet they object to the "guaranteeing" of the safe return of the bank depositors' savings. It makes a difference who is to be "guaranteed." The guaranteeing of "reasonable" (indefinite) profits would seem to be a bigger job than the guaranteeing of actual (definite) deposits and much more liable to abuse.

CREAT RECORD OF KATY

A SPLENDID RECORD IN 40 YEARS

S. O. Dunn, Western Editorial Manager of the Railway Age Gazette, Discusses Railway Accidents in an Able Article.

The first article in the November issue of the Technical World Magazine, one of the leading magazines of the country, treats of railway accidents. The article is written by S. O. Dunn, western editorial manager of the Railway Age Gazette. The article starts out with the statement that a passenger has never been killed on the M., K. & T. railroad, and there is a picture of the recent wreck on that road near Sedalia. The article, as it relates to the Katy, is as follows:

"It was reported a short time ago in a press dispatch that a passenger had been killed in a train accident on the Missouri, Kansas and Texas railway. The management of the Katy immediately denied the correctness of the report and stated that there neverh ad been a passenger killed on its lines. This statement was true. During the forty years that this road has been in operation no traveler has met death upon one of its trains through a train accident. In this respect it has a record that is 100 percent. I do not know whether any other railroa dsystem in the country of equal mileage and density of traffic can pass an equally good examination.

"American railroads have a bad reputation for accidents. Whether they merit as bad a name as they have is another matter. Be that as it may, the fact that a railroad of the size of the Katy has never killed a passenger is notable. How it had made so good a record seemed to merit investigation. But when one of its officers was asked how it had managed to do so well, he replied: 'So many features enter into consideration of the matter that we do not know where to begin nor to what particular condition we can attribute the enviable position we now hold. The specific usually prescribed for accidents is block signals. But block signals have not afforded much protection to passengers on the Katy, because it has now only 140 miles of them on its 3,000 miles of lines. Double track is a great safeguard against train accidents, especially where traffic is dense, but double track is not familiar in the southwest, and the Katy has no more of it than other roads there.

Explanation of the Road.

"The explanation of this road's enviable record may, perhaps, be summed up in the two words, 'good management.' It is not free from accidents, as is shown by the accompanying picture of the wreck of its flyer near Sedalia, Mo., on June 20, 1908, but it has taken the care to equip its passenger trains with heavy cars that will stand very hard strains, and when the flyer collided with a stock train while runnng at a very high speed to make up time, and the locomotive and the baggage car next to it were demolished, not one of the 200 passengers on the train received a scratch, and a number did not know until some time later that a serious accident had occurred. The management also requires that special attention shall be given constantly to track and that rigid inspection shall be made of brakes and running gear of cars. It employes train auditors to collect tickets so that the conductor can give his entire attention to running his train.

Cause of Accidents.

"If you will trace the matter of the cause and prevention of train accidents far enough you will always encounter the human element. It is the most important element of all. The best cars, track and signals, overhead crossings, depressed crossings, are desirable, but they will not prevent accidents, mangled bodies and untimely deaths if the men at the top and the men at the bottom do not know their duty and do it. The Katy owes its clean accident record largely to the fact that the men at the top, knowing and doing their duty, have disciplined or discharged employes who do not know and do their duty, and have kept employes who have known and done their duty. There are on this road 115 locomotive engineers who have been in continuous service for fifteen or more years, their average term of service being twenty-three years, and the longest term of service being thirty-eight years. The engineer who has worked for a road for a long time is apt to be loyal to it, and to give it and its patrons the most conscientious and skillful service he can. He is pretty sure to know every rule of operation, every crossing, every signal, every curve in the track, and will be, therefore, other things equal, a safe man to trust with the hauling of passengers. The Katy's policy of making working for it attractive, so that its employes desire to stay, undoubtedly has contributed much toward making travel safe upon its lines.

Why Not Do as the Katy?

"The question arises, Why do not all roads protect their passengers equally well? One reason why there are more accidents on many railways than on the Katy is that its density of traffic is small compared with theirs. Accidents are apt to increase even faster in proportion than the amount of traffic handled. But density of traffic will not explain the accidents on most roads, for accidents happen on roads of light traffic as well as those where the traffic is most heavy.

"Before taking a survey of the methods that American railroads use to prevent accidents, let us examine briefly the accident problem itself, so that we may get a more accurate idea than most people have of its character and magnitude. The latest statistics of the interstate commerce commission for an entire year are for the twelve months ending June 30, 1907, In that year 11,839 persons were killed, and 111,016 were injured on the railroads of the United States. That is an appalling record. It is a disgrace to American railroads. It is also a disgrace to the American nation. For the railroads are not entirely responsible, as a study of the facts will show."

A PRE-NUPTIAL DINNER

Given for Miss Latimer and Mr. Byng by Messrs. Hawkins and Gallagher

Harry Hawkins and John Gallagher were hosts at a very delightful dinner party given at the Elks' club last evening in honor of Miss Mildred Latimer and John W. Byng, who are to be married next Saturday.

The table was set for twenty-two guests, with only one vacant place, Miss Jane Morey being absent. The decorations were roses and smilax, with a large "L" at one end, Miss Latimer's place, and a "B" at the other, for Mr. Byng.

The party consisted of Misses Lamm, of Fayetteville, Tenn.; Louise Alexander, Ann Skinner, Bess Doyle, Minnie Crafton, of Jefferson City; Mildred Latimer, Mary Estill, Irene Blair, Florence Floyd; Messrs. John W. Byng, Pitkin Stanley, Charles Messerly, E. Ross Kyger, of Kansas City; David Thompson, John Antes, Joe Waddell, Charles Brown.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Latimer chaperoned the party.

The dinner was served in seven courses, and attested further the ability of H. V. Liest and his good wife to arrange a spread unexcelled anywhere.

After the dinner the hall was cleared and the guests danced until the midnight hour, and as the party broke up, many were the remarks of the pleasant evening all had enjoyed.

FEDERATION OF LABOR

THE NATIONAL BODY WILL BE CALLED TO ORDER IN DENVER NOVEMBER 9.

SESSION TO BE OF DEEP INTEREST

If Mr. Bryan Should Be Elected President Gompers' Re-Election Is Assured; But Otherwise, Defeat Is Likely.

Denver, Colo., Oct. 21.—One of the most important conventions of the year will be held in Denver, beginning November 9, when the American Federation of Labor will hold its annual session.

The session will doubtless be of the greatest interest, since it will follow the national election, and the result of the Gompers declaration in favor of Bryan will be apparent.

The coming election is looked upon as a crucial test of the political influence of organized labor.

If the results of the federation's venture into politics should not be satisfactory to the rank and file of the members, an attempt may be made at the convention next month to return to the old policy of abstinence from participation in political activities.

The socialist delegates will probably make an attempt to oust President Samuel Gompers from the position of executive head of the federation.

TO WED GIRL OF PICTURE

YOUTH FALLS IN LOVE WITH ST. LOUIS NEWSPAPER PHOTOGRAPH.

THERE IS A ROMANCE AT CLINTON

Miss Loses Savings In Salmon Bank Failure, But Through Misfortune Finds Husband—Father Cupid's Agent.

Clinton, Mo., Oct. 19.—A romance beginning, indirectly, with the failure of the Salmon bank here in 1903, will result, early this week, in the marriage of Miss Hertie Stephens, daughter of a Clinton real estate dealer, and Meinhart Sannebeck, of Mexico, Mo.

Sannebeck met his fiance almost six months after he saw and fell in love with her photograph, published in a St. Louis paper.

Soon after the Salmon bank went into the hands of a receiver, Miss Stephens' picture appeared among a group of Clinton's girls whose savings were gone.

Miss Stephens, the story went, had saved money to complete her education in college. Young Sannebeck saw the picture and showed it to his friends.

They agreed to write to the girls, Sannebeck choosing Miss Stephens as the one to whom he would address his letter. He waited in vain for an answer; but half a year later became acquainted with her father when the two were registered at the same St. Louis hotel. Sannebeck was then traveling for a meat house.

His business later took him to Clinton, where he renewed his acquaintance with Miss Stephens' father, and through him met the girl.

A Suit for $50,000.

Alleging a conspirarcy to threaten him with discharge unless he ceased his activity in behalf of the "drys" in the recent local option fight in Monett, F. P. Sizer has instituted suit for $50,000 damage against the Frisco system, W. B. Spalding, general agent of the line; T. D. Steele, a Monett attorney; Charles P. Beebe, editor of the Monett Star, and W. G. Buley, another attorney.

Sizer says that he was employed as claim agent by the railway for three years prior to June 19, 1908, when a local option election was held. He had made speeches in behalf of closing the saloons. He claims that he was called to St. Louis and informed by Spaulding that he must drop the fight or resign his position. He chose the latter course.

REPORT OF GOULD LINES

RESULT OF OPERATION SHOWN FOR THE MISSOURI PACIFIC SYSTEM.

The Decrease in the Freight and Passenger Revenue Is Due to General Depression and Hostile Legislation.

The twenty-eighth annual report of the Missouri Pacific Railway company for the year ended June 30 was issued in St. Louis Tuesday from the general offices. The report covers the results of operation of the Missouri Pacific and its branch lines, the Central branch and the St. Louis, Iron Mountain and Southern. The following is a summary:

Gross revenues		$44,238,702.99
Operating expenses (71.5 per cent of gross earnings .		31,646,287.57
Net revenues ..		$12,592,415.42
Income from other sources ..		2,875,297.91
Total income.		$15,467,713.33
Less charges as follows:
Taxes	$1,644,056.73
Interest on bonds ...	9,007,369.20
Rentals paid for leased lines	137,820.00
Equipment trust expenses ..	65,110.98
Hire of equipment	957,555.38
Sundry other charges	670,084.57	12,481,996.86
Leaving amount applicable to dividends		$2,985,716.47
From which has been declared dividend No. 58—2½ per cent on $774,084.
Shares of capital stock outstanding, paid on January 30, 1908..		1,935,210.00
Surplus from the year's operations ...		$1,050,506.47

President Gould's Comments.

President George Gould calls attention to the fact that dividend 58 was fully earned during the first six months' operations, but because of the severe business depression which began in the latter part of October, and the probabilities of its continuance throughout the remainder of the fiscal year, the directors deemed it prudent to reserve the cash for future contingencies, and pay the dividend in capital stock of the company.

Mr. Gould remarks that the reclassification of accounts by the interstae commerce commission and the desirability of conforming substantially thereto, make comparisons with former years difficult in certain items of revenue and expenditures, as, for instance, that of $957,555.38 for "hire of equipment." Heretofore nearly all of this, if incurred, would have appeared in operation expenses (designated as car mileage or per diem charges), whereas now it stands as a charge against income, the same as interest on funded debt, taxes, rentals, etc. A year and a half ago, anticipating heavy balances in per diem charges or "hire of equipment," because of the encouraging growth of tonnage and revenues, the management arranged for important increases in motive power and freight equipment, in consequence of which about 7,000 new freight cars were received during the fiscal year.

Concerning general conditions the president says: "The fiscal year opened with a better promise of business than that realized the previous year, and the first four months showed substantial increase in gross earnings of $1,304,701.74; but the depressed business conditions which set in throughout the country the latter part of October, and prevailed during the remainder of the year, affected the traffic of the company most seriously. This, coupled with reductions in freight and passenger rates by legislatures and railroad commissions in six of the states, had the effect of decreasing the gross receipts from operation by $4,464,639.56, as compared with the previous year. Recently the United States circuit court for the Eastern district of Arkansas, temporarily enjoined the Arkansas railroad commissioners from continuing the reduced freight and passenger rates within that state. Litigation is also being proceeded with as to the reasonableness of the low rates prescribed by the public authorities of other states. The crop prospects are very good and a gradual return of confidence and better business conditions are being displayed, which it is hoped will result in much better earnings the ensuing year."

Plea for Higher Rates.

Vice President C. S. Clarke, in submitting a report in detail, states that the revenues from passenger traffic for the year decreased $1,025,730.13, or 10.58 per cent, partly on account of the general depression in business and partly by the application, under protest, in six of the states, of the low rate of 2 cents per mile, ordered by the public authorities. Considering the sparse population of many of the districts traversed, more especially the branch lines and the new and thus far undeveloped lines constructed in the last three or four years, a rate of 2 cents per passenger mile does not compensate the company for the service performed. The freight earnings for the past year were $31,423,577.35, which was a decrease, compared with those of the previous year, of $4,086,611.36. The financial disturbance in October produced a depression in the general business of the country, from which the industrial and commercial interests have not yet recovered. Merchandising, manufacturing, mining, the lumber business and other trades and industries suffered severely, and products of the farm were held, owing to the uncertainty of markets.

It is necessary that the carriers obtain higher rates than now prevail. The large additions to cost of operation forced upon the railroads within the last few years by the higher prices of labor and materials, as well as the many costly exactions of the national and state governments and the imperative demands of the business public for a more prompt and higher standard of service, have so swelled the expenses as to reduce the margin of profit to a figure that is not adequate to meet the financial requirements of the railroads. The unceasing attention of the traffic and law officers is necessarily directed toward securing such reasonable rates for the service performed as will prove compensatory.

New Industries.

For the year there were established 330 industries of various kinds, in which were invested a capital of $17,359,000, and which promised the company 136,780 car loads of freight annually. Expert examinations of the iron-producing sections of Missouri were conducted last year, and, as a result, three companies have been organized and chartered to carry on iron mining operations. Commercial clubs are being organized at many points to co-operate with the company toward the establishment of industries in their respective localities, and all are meeting with success.

G. H. AYERS
The Dry Candidate for Sheriff

When the different candidates ask you for your vote YOU ASK THEM to name some perpetual law-breakers of Pettis county; ask them to name at least four gambling dens in Sedalia, who run them and who rents the building for this purpose; then ask them where liquor is illegally sold in Pettis county and if they commence to stutter or bite their finger nails, just ask them to honestly confess whether they are competent to fill the office.

Our candidate, Mr. G. H. Ayers, the Dry Candidate for Sheriff, has all of these things spotted. Now if the people want to see the law enforced, remember that Mr. Ayers will DO IT. He has been sixteen years a cowboy and you can depend upon it that he will enforce the law. He will enter any gambling den in Sedalia at any time he thinks there is a game going on. Now you can depend upon this. We ask you to help us elect him.

THE DRY EXECUTIVE COM.

H. CLAY THORNTON'S SALE

There Was a Good Crowd, and Fair Prices Were Realized.

H. Clay Thornton, preparatory to moving to town for the winter, held a closing out sale Friday on his farm, ten miles north of Sedalia.

It was a windy, dusty day, but still a fair-sized crowd of his neighbors attended, and bid promptly on all offerings, and the sale was satisfactory to the genial proprietor and salesmen alike.

While the farm implements and machinery, owing to the season, brought low prices, still the stock sold well. A pair of farm horses brought $360, an an 18-year-old horse went for $80. Milch cows sold from $56 down. Sows went from $12 to $19, and sheep sold for $6.45.

Cols. J. H. Newland and C. J. Hieronymus conducted the sale in their usual energetic manner, and closed out everything before night, though they had a big day's work.

The ladies of High Point Methodist church served a full set dinner of all the good things of the farm and garden, which was greatly enjoyed by all, and they had a good sum for their day's labor.

POINTER FROM MR. QUIGLEY

Says New Electric Railway Will Aid Ava's Growth.

J. B. Quigley, manager of the Kansas City, Ozarks & Southern railway, the new electric line being built between Mansfield and Ava, was in Ava last week, and urged the citizens of the fourth class, in preparation for the fourth class, in preparation for the increased prosperity that will result from the building of the line.

The country surrounding Ava will prove itself worth a great deal more than it has been after the shipping facilities are complete, and interest is being taken in Mr. Quigley's proposition.

Work on the new electric line is being pushed with all possible speed.

WAS FINED FOR SMOKING

W. E. Yount, Who Formerly Conducted a Garage in Sedalia.

W. E. Yount, a former Sedalian, was fined $3 in the Dayton street police court at St. Louis Saturday for violating a recently passed city ordinance, prohibiting smoking in automobile garages. A similar fine was imposed on Mr. Yount's partner, Archie Campbell, of Clayton.

Mr. Yount formerly conducted a local agency for the Buick Automobile company with Mr. Blincoe, and left Sedalia several weeks ago for St. Louis, where he engaged in similar business.

CITY COUNCIL MEETING

IN THE ABSENCE OF MAYOR J. L. BABCOCK, MR. ANDLER PRESIDED.

THE SIXTEENTH STREET SIDEWALKS

Pay for Witnesses in the Frederick Damage Suit Against the City—Several Ordinances Are Adopted.

In the absence of Mayor J. L. Babcock, Alderman E. R. Andler, president pro tem of the city council, called that body to order in regular session at 7:55 o'clock Monday night.

Aldermen DeJarnette, Hatton and Sullivan were absent at roll call, but put in their appearance shortly after the opening of the session.

Minutes of the previous meeting were read and filed.

A resolution was presented by Mr. Olmsted, asking for sidewalks on Sixteenth street, from Ingram to Engineer avenue.

A. L. Shortridge addressed the council, asking the city to pay the costs due plaintiff's witnesses in the J. E. Fredericks damage suit against the city, which was tried in the Johnson county circuit court.

It was referred to the finance committee, with power to act, not, however, until Marshal Boullt, through Alderman Ilgenfritz, had conveyed the intelligence that one of plaintiff's witnesses in the suit had failed to pay a police court fine, and his costs in the suit would have to be turned over to the city for violating the law. Mr. Shortridge consented to deduct the sum.

I. N. McNeil was granted a plumber's and drain layer's license.

Ordinances for the following purposes were passed: Extending water mains north on Moniteau avenue to Johnson from Cooper street and east on Johnson to Osage avenue; cutting off thirty-five feet from Liberty park for the purpose of widening Park avenue; changing the grade on Park avenue, and establishing a new grade on Park avenue.

After allowing all properly audited bills, council adjourned at 8:45 o'clock.

BEEN PROMOTED TO FOREMAN

Charles E. Barnett Gets Fine Position in St. Louis.

Charles E. Barnett writes from St. Louis to his father, R. W. Barnett, that he has been promoted from proof reader to foreman of the Buxton & Skinner Printing Co. in that city, and entered upon his duties today.

The plant is one of the largest in St. Louis and the position of foreman is truly a responsible one, but the genial Charlie will fill it to the entire satisfaction of both his employers and the employes.

Mr. Barnett has another son, Elbert A. Barnett, who is foreman of the Hudson Printing Co., the largest job printing house in Kansas City. When it comes to knowing all the intricacies of the art preservative, the Messrs. Barnett need not take a back seat for anyone in the business.

A WEDDING ON WEDNESDAY

That of Mr. Adam Smasal and Miss Elizabeth Geigel.

(From Tuesday's Daily)

Miss Anna Geigel left this morning for Spring Fork, where, tomorrow, she will be present at the marriage of her sister, Miss Elizabeth, to Adam Smasal, a young business man of Cole Camp.

The ceremony will take place in the Spring Fork Catholic church and Rev. Fr. Schmidt, pastor, will officiate. Relatives and friends will attend. The bridal couple will make their home at Cole Camp.

Miss Geigel formerly made this city her home, where she has many friends, all of whom will learn of her approaching marriage with pleasure.

Former Missouri Pacific Conductor Out of Sedalia.

Chicago, Oct. 21.—Major Beecher R. Ray and Major Timothy D. Keliher, of the paymaster's department, were commanded yesterday, in a general order issued by Brigadier General Carter, commander of the department of the lakes, to take a 50-mile "hike," beginning today and continuing for three days.

Several weeks ago all the officers of the department with the exception of Major Ray and Major Keliher, participated in a 90-mile horseback test ordered by the government.

It is the first time an endurance walk has been ordered by Gen. Carter in lieu of the horseback test instituted by President Roosevelt. In their walk the officers will be accompanied by a detachment of soldiers from Fort Sheridan.

Licensed to Wed.

(From Monday's Daily.)

A marriage license was issued today to Frank B. Griffin, of Smithton, and Ethel Potter, of Clifton City.

A marriage license was also issued this afternoon to Harry W. Meuschke and Miss Emison S. Wood, both of Sedalia, who will be married tonight by the Rev. J. B. Fuller.

ENGINEER WAS KILLED

Santa Fe Passenger and Stock Train Went Together Head-on.

Topeka, Kas., Oct. 19.—Santa Fe train No. 17, the Oklahoma and Texas express, which left Kansas City last night at 9:30 o'clock, collided head-on with a stock extra at Braddock, fifteen miles east of Newton, at 3:45 o'clock this morning, resulting in the death of Engineer Dave H. Roberts, of Emporia, of the stock train, and injuring twenty-two passengers, none seriously.

Both trains were running at full speed. It is thought the accident was caused by the crew of the passenger running by a signal. About forty cattle were killed.

TWO GOOD ADDRESSES

From a Republican Standpoint at the Court House.

Two of the most interesting speakers who will be heard in this city during the presidential campaign addressed more than two hundred voters at the criminal court room Monday night, W. W. Blair presiding and introducing the speakers.

Hon. Arnold Shanklin, consul general to Panama, was the first orator, and held the keenest attention of every auditor until the close of his talk. He was followed by Senator Porter Johnson, of Chicago, who spoke on political issues.

The addresses were two of the best yet heard in this city.

St. Louis Live Stock Market.

Special to Democrat-Sentinel.

National Stock Yards, Ill., Oct. 20.—Cattle receipts today, $6,000; market about steady with yesterday. Nothing choice on sale. General trade 10@15c lower than a week ago, the lone exception being choice yearlings, for which there are good demands at present, and that kind commands top prices. One load yesterday reached $7.00, and the best heavy steers also sold at that price. Supplies continue to grade mostly fair to medium killers, and until the heavy run of that kind is over, little improvement is expected. Prospects strong for good cattle.

Hog receipts, 9,000; quality a little better than yesterday, but only fair at that. The trade opened 5@10c lower; closed more active with tops at $5.80, and the bulk at $5.10 to $5.60. Good heavy hogs now command top prices, and there is a wide range between those and good 110 to 135-pound pigs, which are selling at $4.25@4.80. Most of the good heavy hogs are selling above $5.40; mixed and butchers, $5.25@5.70; mixed packers, $5.15@5.60, and light pigs at $4.00@4.50. A temporary reaction is about due, but we look for no permanent improvement soon.

Sheep receipts, 5,500. Lambs, 15@25c lower; top, $5.50; bulk of the good ones, $5.00@5.25. Sheep, 10@15c lower; good muttons largely at $4.00@4.15. Top, for one small bunch, $4.50. Values should strengthen a little, under light receipts, the next few days.—National Live Stock Commission Co.

THREE CARS COLLIDED

KANSAS CITY STREET RAILWAY HAD THRILLING AND FATAL ACCIDENT.

RUNAWAY CAR RUSHED DOWN HILL

Others Coming Up Tried to Escape, and Race Continued for Blocks Before Coming Together—One Killed, Many Injured.

Kansas City, Oct. 19.—Three trolley cars on the Troost avenue line of the street railway here collided at Thirteenth street and Troost avenue this morning and were badly wrecked. One man is dead and fifteen others badly injured.

R. I. Smith, aged 45 years, of Nevada, Mo., was crushed between the cars and killed.

The air brake on one of the cars failed to work and the uncontrolled car slid down the steep hill and the two others, which were coming up the hill behind, backed away for three blocks in a thrilling attempt to escape the runaway car. For a quarter of a mile the race continued before they finally collided.

Men and women passengers jumped frantically to the street. Several were hurt in their effort to escape.

The total number of injured was twenty-six, but the hurts of half of this number were slight, consisting of cuts and bruises. Five are in a critcal condition.

SNATCHED FOR A PURSE

Unknown Man Attempted to Rob Miss Kate Corbett.

(From Monday's Daily.)

An unknown man, small and heavy-set, made an unsuccessful attempt to snatch a purse from Miss Kate Corbett, 412 North Grand avenue, while she was returning home at 6:30 o'clock last evening. The attempted theft occurred in front of W. J Menefee's grocery store on West Second street.

Miss Corbett was accompanied by Miss Flora Kirchoffer, and when she approached the locality stated the stranger jumped from the side of the building.

A strap on the purse was looped over Miss Corbett's arm, and in scuffling with the man she managed to hold the purse.

A PRETTY HOME WEDDING

THAT OF HARRY W. MEUSCHKE AND MISS EMISON S. WOOD LAST EVENING.

REV. J. B. FULLER, D.D., OFFICIATED

Mrs. Edna Morris Sims Played the Wedding March and Mrs. Harvey MacGugin Sang "I Love You" —Many Pretty Presents.

(From Tuesday's Daily)

One of the prettiest wedding ceremonies that has been solemnized in this city in months, uniting two prominent families, occurred at 8:30 o'clock last night, when Harry W. Meuschke, the oldest son of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Meuschke, of West Fourth street, and Miss Emison Snell Wood, daughter of Mrs. Mary Wood, were united in marriage by the Rev Dr. J. B. Fuller at the home of the bride's mother, 116 West Seventh street.

The residence was prettily decorated in anticipation of the ceremony, which was attended by a large number of relatives of the contracting parties and a few intimate friends.

Mendelssohn's wedding march was played by Mrs. Edna Morris Sims, and Mrs. Harvey MacGugin sang, "I Love You." Little Miss Helen McCurdy, of Kansas City, acted as ring bearer.

Immediately after the solemnization of the event a wedding supper was served to the couple and guests at Mrs. Wood's home, and the bridal couple, escorted to the train by the guests, left at midnight for a brief honeymoon tour of the east, after which they will return here to make their home in a handsome new residence in Dal-Whi-Mo court.

Numerous beautiful wedding presents were received by the popular young couple.

The following out-of-town guests were present: Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Parker, Miss Bettie Parker and Mr. Thomas Parker, all of Bloomington, Ill.; Mr. and Mrs. R. L. McCurdy, Misses Cleora Barrett and Elsie Wood, all of Kansas City; Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Meuschke, Mr. and Mrs. John Keuper and Mr. Will Human, all of Lincoln, Mo.

Mr. Meuschke holds the responsible position of head clerk at his father's dry goods emporium, and is a well liked young man of splendid business ability.

His bride is one of Sedalia's sweetest and mostly lovable young ladies, possessed of an affable disposition and charming personality, and the best wishes of every acquaintance will be extended to the couple that they may live to enjoy a long and happy married life.

HAD A BIRTHDAY DINNER

In Honor of Mr. A. J. Crawford's Eighty-Sixth Anniversary.

The 86th birthday anniversary of A. J. Crawford was celebrated Sunday at the home of his daughter, Mrs. T. H. Diffendaffer, 408 West Fifth street, where twenty-four of his children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren assembled to help him remember his birthday.

At the noon hour, when the real enjoyment began, the table was loaded to its fullest capacity with all things imaginable to satisfy the hungry mouths present. Those in attendance were as follows:

James Crawford and son, Ralph, of Dresden; Clarence Dump and family; Max Riecke, wife and two sons, of R. F. D. No. 1, Mora; Mr. and Mrs. Ira Diffendaffer and son, B. A. Dump, wife and two daughters, of Mora, and Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Diffendaffer and Mrs. Tom Fields, a daughter of Mr. Crawford's of Beaman.

STORY OF A MILKMAID

She Carried Typhoid Fever Germs Eighteen Years.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 20.—One of the most remarkable discoveries in medical history, in connection with the source of the spread of typhoid fever, has just been brought to light as the result of an investigation by officers of the Public Health and Marine Hospital service into a recent outbreak of that disease in Georgetown, or West Washington, D. C.

The investigation disclosed the fact that a milkmaid at a neighboring dairy, who had typhoid eighteen years ago, still throws off in her dejecta virile typhoid fever bacilli, and was the responsible agent in spreading the disease.

With one exception this is the first considerable outbreak of typhoid fever in the United States traced through milk to such a carrier.

A special feature in connection with the case is that the examination developed a large number of typhoid bacilli in the dejecta of the woman, although she apparently was enjoying good health.

FORTY HOURS' DEVOTION

At Sacred Heart Church Sunday Monday and Tuesday.

Next Sunday, Monday and Tuesday the annual forty hours' devotion will be conducted at Sacred Heart church by the Rev. Stephen Weigand.

Sunday morning at 8 o'clock the solemn exposition mass will be chanted by the pastor, while Frs. Stephen Weigand and Christian Daniel will act as deacon and sub-deacon.

During this service the members of the Altar society and Marian sodality will receive holy communion in a body.

At the 9 o'clock mass the children will sing sacred hymns in honor of the blessed sacrament.

Rev. Christian Daniel will chant high mass at 10:30, during which Rev. Stephen Weigand will preach on the "Eucharist."

In the afternoon at 2:30 the Eucharistic stations will be recited, and at 7:30 there will be rosary, an important sermon and benediction.

SARAH BERNHARDT IS 64

LOOKED UPON BY MILLIONS AS THE GREATEST ACTRESS IN THE WORLD.

NOT YET A BROKEN DOWN WOMAN

But Rheumatism Has Worked Ravages That Powder and Rouge, the Panacea for Aging, Are Powerless to Cure.

Paris Oct. 20.—Madame Sarah Bernhardt, who is looked upon by millions as the world's greatest actress will celebrate her 64th birthday Oct. 22. Although she is yet far from the broken down old woman that might be expected from her age and her strenuous career, her final retirement from the stage she has so long graced is at hand.

Rheumatism has worked ravages that powder and rouge, the panaceas of the aging actress, are powerless to cure. The many "retirements" of Bernhardt have been looked upon as jokes, but this time it is no joke. It is tragedy, as well for the public that has so long applauded and admired, as for the proud old actress who has at last been compelled to haul down her colors and surrender to the infirmities of Father Time.

Sarah Bernhardt was born on Oct. 22, 1844. Until within the last year or two she has been equally successful preserving both health and youthfulness against the ravages of time. In her long and triumphant life, Madame Bernhardt's unbroken health has seemed almost as remarkable as her finished art. Save for occasional fainting spells to which she is subject, her career has never been interrupted by illness. Yet she has been known as the busiest as well as the most gifted woman in France.

The early years of Sarah Bernhardt's life were spent in Amsterdam, in the house of her grandfather, who was an optician. She was born in Paris, however, and returned there with her mother, entering the Conservatoire at the age of 14.

Three years later she gained the second prize for tragedy, a prize for comedy in the following year, and made her first appearance as an actress at the Theater Francais, where she attracted very little attention. Her first successes were made at other theaters, where the attention she attracted compelled her recall to the theater Francais.

She did not become a world-wide figure until she visited England in 1879, and two years later made her first tour of the United States.

Her second visit to England caused a break between Bernhardt and the Comedie Francaise. She has appeared since under various managements, including her own, and has sunk several fortunes in productions.

Quite recently the famous actress gave the description of one day in her life:

"While I was preparing for my revival of 'La Samaritaine' with Hahn's I rose each morning at 7:30 o'clock. As soon as I was dressed—I take nothing whatever to eat or drink in the morning—I came down to the theater, arriving not later than 9 o'clock, and devoted the whole morning to rehearsing. At 12 o'clock I breakfasted with a friend or two without leaving the house, for I have fitted up a dining room down stairs and get food sent in from a neighboring restaurant.

"The meal over, I set to work upon 'Varennes,' rehearsals lasting till 5 o'clock, or even 6 o'clock. Then came the turn of the scene painters and decorators; all sketches have to be carefully examined, as do the designs of the costumes, and all of the thousand and one accessories of a spectacular play. None of these things can be left to chance. Every detail requires my special attention, and thus every minute of my time until the evening performance is taken up with the preparatons for the new play.

"Fortunately for me, I do not dine, I merely eat an egg or two broken up in beer, and so I am quickly ready to go on the stage as 'La Sorciere.' When the curtain finally falls on that piece my cashier joins me here and presents his accounts, and by the time I have gone through them and reached home it is genrally quite 2 o'clock in the morning. Then comes supper.

"What do you think we ate last night, Mlle. Seylor and I? One hundred mussels!

"Of course, such a day as I have described is an exceptional one. As a rule, I do not rise before 10 o'clock, and then give about an hour to writing, going to the theater about midday. I am under a contract with an English magazine to send it every month an article of about 5,000 words, which is published simultaneously in England and America. I am also writing my memoirs, the material for which I get partly from my friends and partly from the press notices which have appeared about me. Of these I have something like five large volumes. Lately I have been doing the part of my life which preceded my appearance upon the stage, when I was living at Versailles in the convent or Grandchamp. It will surprise you, perhaps, to learn that I then wanted to become a nun."

The memoirs have since appeared, and they furnish an interesting picture by herself of the world's greatest actress, now said to be at last compelled to retire.

Held On a $1,000 Bond.
